DEDIC

One cannot think of progress without feeling remorse at the passing of an old order. So it is with progressive Michigan State.

As seniors, we have seen State expand from a 4000 to a 6000 enrollment during an all too short span of four years. We have seen old landmarks fall, giving way to new construction, symbolic of progress. And it cannot help but be with a bit of pride that we appraise such developments, for they bring a realization that Michigan State is about to gain position in the national spotlight as one of the greater educational insittutions.

A T I O N

Such gains, however, can come only through sacrifice; sacrifice of traditions; sacrifice of small college atmosphere which was so obvious but a few years ago. Familiar faces seem farther apart as one crosses the campus; athletics have become businesslike, supplanting the wild spirit of a small but enthusiastic following; classes are larger and instructors and students lose personality. And so, with this realization ever more evident, we dedicate this Wolverine to the small college atmosphere, lost forever to Michigan State.

VI. INDEX AND ADVERTISING

In this section the academic divisions of the college are described by means of pictures and printed words. They are arranged in historical sequence and each division contains its dean, building, organizations, and honoraries, the graduating seniors, and the activities of these seniors. Occasionally a panel of informal pictures has been added to supply a bit of additional interest.

THE DEAN.

Dean of Agriculture
ERNEST L. ANTHONY

Ernest L. Anthony, M.S., Dean of Agriculture, has served with Michigan State since he came here in 1928 to assume a Professorship and become Head of Dairy Husbandry. In 1932 he assumed the duties of Acting Dean of Agriculture, and in 1933 he was appointed Dean of that division.

Agricultural Building . . . completed in 1919 . . . Indiana limestone and red paving brick . . . four stories and a half basement . . . total frontage of 190 feet . . . wings are 100 feet from front to rear.

BUILDING, AND AG SHOTS

The Agricultural Division of Michigan State College is of historical importance inasmuch as Michigan Agricultural College became the first land grant college when it was founded in 1857. For twenty-eight years agricultural education was the only course of instruction. At that time Applied Science was added to the curriculum.

The extension division of this department has provided beneficial personal contact with the farmers throughout the state. Staff members are located in every county and lend aid to farmers with particular problems.

In 1888 the Experiment Station was established. Through scientific experimentation, valuable knowledge of agricultural methods and practices arose. This information is now distributed to interested persons by printed bulletins and Radio Station WKAR, owned and operated by the college.

Farmers' Week and short courses give all progressive farmers the opportunity of availing themselves of all latest developments in the field of Agriculture. Crowds of fifty thousand are not unusual during the Farmers' Week each winter term.

In the courses of instruction, emphasis is now being placed upon marketing of products, soil conservation, and better business methods which in turn yield security and permanence of endeavor.

The Agricultural Council was formed in an effort to bring about greater unity in the activities carried on by the various organizations made up of Agricultural students as well as to carry on activities in its own right for the benefit of the division. Each year the Council sponsors during fall term the "All Ag Mixer", which serves to acquaint all undergraduates carrying work in the Agricultural division with one another and with the incoming Freshmen, and the "Harvest Ball". In addition, each winter term students who have done outstanding work in classes are honored at the "All Ag Achievement Banquet," and the Council climaxes its activities during spring term with the "All Ag Carnival."

The member who is elected annually as the president of each student organization within the division automatically becomes the representative of that group in the Agricultural Council, and, in addition, one representative at large is elected by members of the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior classes. Besides the student members, the faculty is represented on the Council by one man from each of the major departments of the division.

Since its inception on this campus during the winter term of 1937, the immediate goal of the Agricultural Engineers Club was affiliation with the national professional fraternity, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. Basing its membership requirements on those of the national organization, the local group carried on activities pursuant of similar aims, and at a banquet on February 22, 1939, the Agricultural Engineers Club was recognized as the Michigan State College Student Branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. Membership in the organization is open to any interested student who is taking his major work in Agricultural Engineering courses.

The principle objective of the group is the promotion of the interests of students of this curriculum, particularly as these interests relate to their professional advancement and the advancement of the parent organization. In addition to regular business meetings, programs of general interest are presented for the benefit of members, including informal discussions and talks by men who are qualified by actual experience in this field to assist the student to a better understanding of the work that awaits him.

Any student majoring in the Farm Crops or Soils departments of the school of Agriculture is eligible to become a member of the Agronomy Club, which, although formerly a local organization, is now connected with the Junior Section of the American Society of Agronomy. Meetings are held once every two weeks throughout the school year, at which time speakers are frequently asked to discuss with the members such topics as the difficulties encountered in the practical application of theories learned while in school connected with the occupation they will follow upon graduation. Occasionally strictly social meetings are held.

Each year during Farmers' Week the club establishes a concession booth convenient to the activities of the conclave, the income from which is used in furthering the growth and the activities of the Farm Crops Judging Team. The team takes part each year in a number of inter-collegiate judging contests. All activities of the group point toward educating the member in community activities so they will be better fitted to take part in the leadership of the community upon graduation.

Kedzie Chapter of the fraternity of Alpha Zeta was founded on the Michigan State College campus in 1903. Membership is open to those students carrying the major part of their work in the school of Agriculture who have attained and held a high scholastic standing in all college courses. The organization is widely known and recognized, having chapters in every state and alumni in every college faculty throughout the country.

Not the least of Alpha Zeta's purposes is the promotion of high scholarship plus worthy character and the quality of leadership in college and community life most desirable among students of Agriculture. Kedzie chapter, like the national organization, has and is carrying on a program designed to bring about a closer relationship between the students and the members of the faculty and to prepare its members for desirable careers following graduation. The fraternity is in addition to its honorary character a service organization, whose program includes orientation of Freshmen Agricultural students, assistance to the college authorities during Farmers' Week and at all times aiming to unify the division which it represents.

Block and Bridle attempts at all times to promote a closer relationship than might otherwise be possible among its members, and to foster better understanding between members of the student body and faculty in this particular phase of Agriculture. Not only does the group assist its members and the Agricultural division in their activities, but it has been and is instrumental in maintaining the excellent work of the Animal Husbandry Stock Judging Team both through the medium of financial support and by encouraging student interest in inter-collegiate judging contests. The organization constantly directs its efforts toward the promotion of a higher scholastic standing among students of Animal Husbandry and the encouragement of members in the continued work in this division by varied social activities and informal discussions of different phases of their particular curriculums.

The local organization was established in 1930 as a branch of the national fraternity, and membership is open to all men students taking the major portion of their credits in some phase of Animal Husbandry with the intention of making it their profession upon graduation.

Any student, regardless of his major course, who is interested in dairying and its advancement is eligible for membership in the Dairy Club. Although the group is not connected with any national organization, it carries on each year an intensive program for the benefit not only of its members but of the entire school of Agriculture.

One of the club's chief activities is the raising of funds to be used in sponsoring and supporting the work of the Dairy Products and Dairy Cattle Judging Teams. The members individually and the organization as a whole lend moral and active support to any function or movement that they believe will result in the advancement of the interests of dairying and will benefit those who are now connected with this particular form of Agriculture or those who in the future will be engaged in this work. The Dairy Club is represented on the Agricultural Council, as are all other student organizations connected with the division of Agriculture, and cooperates with the Council in all activities carried on by this division.

Each Saturday afternoon throughout the school year the Campus 4-H Club sponsors and conducts a radio program over the College station, WKAR, at which time subjects of interest to the farmer are discussed. Each week a member of the club from a different county is interviewed and occasionally leaders in community and farm organizations come before the questioner. During the progress of the State Fair reviews of activities taking place there are broadcast in place of the regular interviews.

All men and women students who have belonged to some 4-H club before entering Michigan State, a large part of whom are registered in Agriculture and Home Economics, are urged to affiliate with the local organization, and special attempts are made to have Short Course students become members of the group during their work here. Regular bi-weekly meetings are held, interspersed frequently with dances and social meetings where group games are played, offering a splendid opportunity for students with similar interests to become better acquainted. A regular part of the club's annual program is assisting the Freshman in orienting himself to college life.

The Horticulture Club was founded soon after the turn of the century as a local organization dedicated to the purpose of creating a closer relationship between those interested in the subjects and assisting them in their work. Any students or faculty members on the campus who are connected with the department and others who are interested in the science of Horticulture, although not actively engaged in studying or teaching the course, is eligible for membership.

Opportunities are given the members at regular meetings for presenting to the group as a whole their varied interests and experiences in connection with this field of work. An effort is made to acquaint the members with one another in order to foster that cooperation that leads to a more enjoyable college life and greater benefit from the work done here. Practicing horticulturalists and instructors in the science present informally subjects related to this field and informal discussions are held in an attempt to bring about a greater appreciation of the practical application of principles that have been learned in the class room and laboratory.

The local chapter of Pi Alpha Xi, like the national organization, has striven since its inception on this campus to promote higher scholarship among its members, both in Floriculture and in all other college courses, and to foster good fellowship among them. In addition, the organization attempts continually to establish cordial relations between students majoring in Floriculture, educators, and professional florists. In addition to informal discussions on related subjects and the practical application of basic theories and talks by professional florists held during the regular monthly meetings, the group has sponsored judging classes open to all students interested in Floriculture.

Membership in Pi Alpha Xi is limited to men students majoring in this science who have attained a higher than average all-college scholastic rating. Delta Chapter of the national organization was founded at Michigan State College in 1928 by a group of students and faculty members who were desirous of carrying on activities related to the subject outside of the class room. Each year the members build exhibits for the enjoyment and instruction of visitors to the campus during Farmers' Week.

The M. S. C. Student Grange was founded in 1928 as a subordinate division of the National Grange, the world's oldest and largest farm organization, the purpose of which is to promote the interests of Agriculture and to provide a fraternal organization for rural men and women to serve as a center of social activity for the community. Any person interested in advancing rural education and activities is eligible for membership in the local chapter.

In addition to regular meetings every two weeks throughout the school year, varied social activities are provided for the members, for the most part students registered in Agriculture and Home Economics. The organization strives to provide training in rural leadership in order that its members will be better able to assume leadership in community affairs after graduation. Members of the Student Grange each year lend active assistance to the college authorities in carrying out the activities of Farmers' Week.

XI SIGMA PI

National Scholastic Forestry Fraternity
Beta Chapter

Xi Sigma Pi was founded at the University of Washington as a scholastic honorary for Forestry students in 1908 and Beta chapter was installed at Michigan State in 1916. The organization has set a high standard of qualifications for membership, these including high scholastic standing and a reputation for honesty, sincerity and friendliness. Selection of candidates is based largely on professional promise. The organization was responsible for the promotion of the Forestry department's student publication, "Pine Needles," and members maintain an active interest in the Forestry Club.

Bottom Row—A. B. Bowman, C. E. Erickson, W. A. Rifenberg, D. L. Arnold, R. R. Lapp.

The Forestry Club Cabinet acts as a general governing body and aids in the planning of the program of the Forestry Club activities. The Forestry Club was organized to promote stronger bonds of friendship among the student body and faculty; to provide a program of an educational and social value, and to cooperate in all college activities.

CAMPUS CONSTRUCTION

Construction dotted the State campus during the past year as eight new buildings arose. More prominent among these were the hospital, men's and women's dorms, the field house, and the auditorium. A few shots, antiquated by now, are presented here.

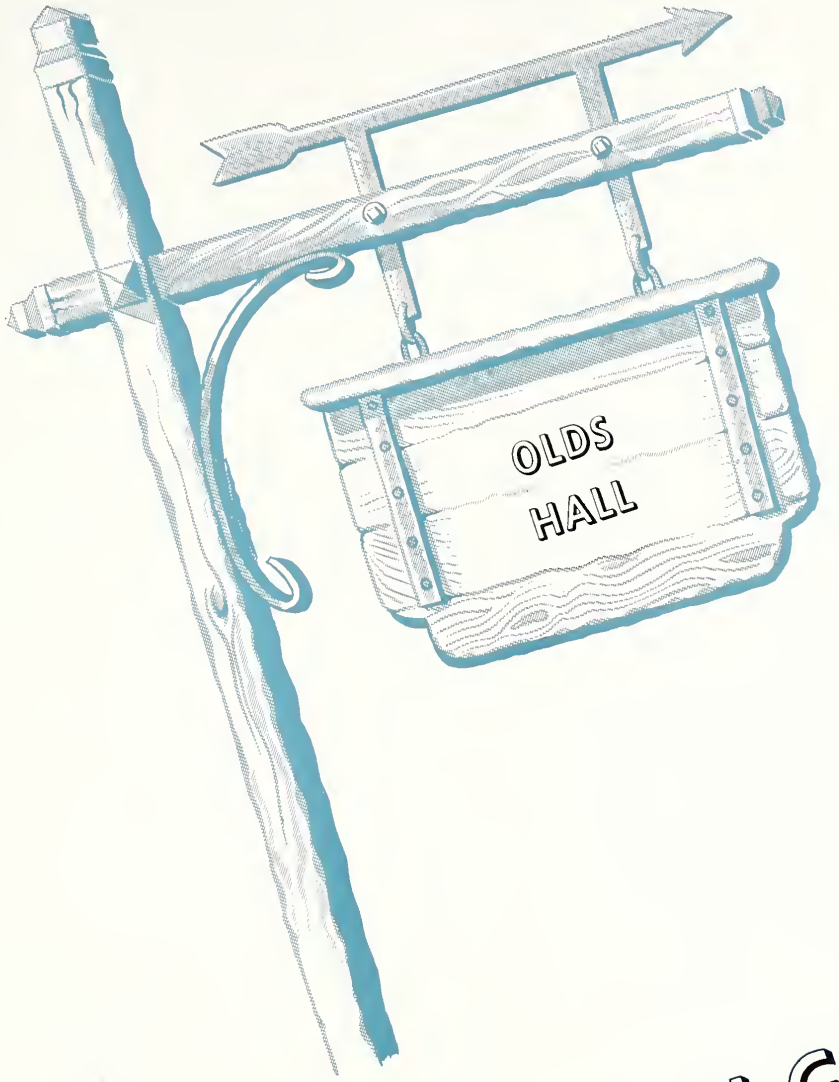
The divisions of the college have been arranged in chronological order of their date of origination. Neither size nor importance have determined their order in this book. The Agriculture division was established in 1857, the Engineering in 1885, the Home Economics in 1896, the Veterinary Science in 1909, the Applied Science in 1921, and the Liberal Arts division in 1924. Thus Michigan State has grown.



ENGINEERING

THE DEAN, THE BUILDING,

DEAN DIRKS

Dean Henry B. Dirks, B.S., M.E., heads the Division of Engineering and is Director of the Engineering Experiment Station. Before coming to State in 1919 as Professor of Mechanical Engineering, he served as Assistant Professor at Princeton. He assumed his present position as Dean of Engineering in 1931.

The R. E. Olds Hall of Engineering is a fireproof building of brick and limestone. About 40,000 square feet of classroom and laboratory space are enclosed within its walls. The structure is named in honor of R. E. Olds of Lansing, who contributed $100,000 towards its construction.

AND A BIT ABOUT THE DIVISION

The Division of Engineering as we know it today came into existence November 13, 1909 when the general administrative features of this institution were reorganized. Previous to that the work of the division fell under the Department of Mechanical Arts which had been established in 1885 in fulfillment of the provisions of the Land Grant Act of 1862.

The division is subdivided into Civil, Chemical, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering. Also under the curriculum of this division falls Engineering Administration, designed to give interested students a working knowledge of the business side of the engineering industries in addition to the technical knowledge.

The courses offered by the department are designed to furnish the student with a knowledge of the fundamental principles of the sciences which are a basis of engineering practice, a training of the senses in accurate habits of observation of the mind towards logical deductions from observed facts, an acquaintance with approved methods of drafting and computing, and with the use and limitations of instruments, opportunity for experimental work on engineering problems, the art of correct expression in speech and writing, and a true concept of the duties and privileges of the engineer as a citizen and as a member of his profession.

All undergraduate students enrolled in the department of Electrical Engineering may become members of the student chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Instructors and other electrical engineering graduates are usually members of the national organization, but may also become members of the local branch if they so desire. The Michigan State branch was founded on April 2, 1918 by Professor M. M. Cory, who is still a member of the Electrical Engineering department.

A. I. E. E. aims to function as a member of and to carry on activities similar to those of the national fraternity. One of its main purposes is to give the students an early acquaintance with those who are engaged actively in this field and with the problems confronting them. Speakers are presented during the year to give the student members an insight into industrial conditions and to acquaint them with the different fields of the science. The club encourages students in the preparation of technical papers and exhibits and gives them a chance to plan meetings and assume responsibilities similar to those which they will be required to face in the future.

Any undergraduate who is studying in the Chemical Engineering curriculum of the school of Engineering is eligible for membership in the Michigan State College student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. The national organization, as well as the local division, was organized for the purpose of bringing about a closer relationship among those students who have chosen Chemical Engineering as their field of endeavor. This chapter is one of the newest organizations on the campus, having been formed in January of 1938.

In addition to furthering friendship among its members, the society is dedicated to the purpose of imparting to them a better understanding of the principles of engineering in general and of this particular branch of the science specifically. It also strives to acquaint the student member with the ethics of his chosen profession and to prepare him for membership in the parent organization upon graduation. Meetings provide an opportunity for faculty members of the department to present theory and practical application of the subject more informally than is possible in the class room.

Members of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes in Civil Engineering are invited to affiliate with the Michigan State College student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a national professional organization. A large part of the group's program is aimed at creating a closer relationship among Civil Engineering students and a mutual understanding of the problems faced by students and members of the faculty of this department of the Engineering division.

By association with the organization, members receive a better understanding of the standards of the Civil Engineer which they will be called upon to uphold when they enter upon active service in the field. Education beyond that received in the class room is imparted to the member through the medium of inspection trips, talks by speakers eminently qualified for such work by actual service in this field of Engineering and motion pictures concerned with Civil Engineering subjects. As part of their work each year, members of the A. S. C. E. build displays which are exhibited during Farmers' Week and the Michigan Road Builders' Show.

The goal A. S. M. E. has in view at all times is that of acquainting Mechanical Engineering students with current industrial conditions through the medium of inspection trips through various manufacturing plants in the vicinity and fostering and maintaining interest in the engineering field among members by presenting speakers well versed in the practical application of Mechanical Engineering principles in the industrial world and motion pictures and exhibits on pertinent subjects provided by manufacturing concerns. The group provides a close knit organization which provides encouragement for its members and assists them in the preparation of papers on technical subjects, projects and exhibits and gives them an opportunity to plan meetings and assume responsibilities in preparation for the leadership that they hope to take in the future.

Regular business and social meetings provide an opportunity for members to become better acquainted with their associates both among the students and faculty members. .

Alpha chapter of Phi Lambda Tau, national honorary engineering fraternity, was founded at Michigan State in 1925. As the actual requirements for membership as set forth in the constitution are not to be published, a general statement of what is expected of a member of Phi Lambda Tau will suffice. He must show better than average endeavor in the scholastic field of Engineering, coupled with initiative, character and personality.

The aim of the fraternity is to create a society for the mutual benefit of all engineers who answer the above listed requirements and to create a spirit of friendship among the students of the Engineering school of this college. Among the activities carried on by the organization is the selection each spring term by a vote of the Senior members of the outstanding Senior engineer. The selection is made from a list of men recommended by the faculty of the division. Phi Lambda Tau also sponsors a series of noon luncheons throughout the year which also aids in promoting the spirit of fellowship. During spring term open lectures are held on various phases of the field of engineering.

Michigan Alpha chapter was the first branch of Tau Beta Pi, the national honorary engineering fraternity, after it was organized at Lehigh University in the year 1885. Members are selected from a list of those students in the Senior Engineering class who have attained a scholastic rating in the upper one-quarter of the class, initiations being held fall and winter terms of each year. In addition to high scholarship, however, candidates for membership must have proved their character and high ideals.

Monthly meetings are devoted to the transaction of necessary business and discussions of topics of interest to Engineering students. Members of the faculty and other men who have already made their marks in the Engineering field are often asked to present talks aimed at giving the student a better insight into the practical application of principles learned in college and current conditions in industry and the various specialized fields of the Engineering science. The group has in the past done outstanding service for the division by sponsoring a tutoring class for the benefit of all Engineering students who may desire help.

HOME ECONOMICS

THE DEAN, THE BUILDING,

DEAN DYE

Dean Marie D,e, Ph.D., assumed her present role as dean of the Home Economics Division in 1930. She also holds the title of Professor of Nutrition. Dean Dye came to State from University of Chicago in 1922 to become Assistant Professor of Nutrition. At the present time, the Division is one of the largest and best equipped in the college.

The Home Economics Building, located on the Grand River approach to the campus, was completed in 1924. Previous to that, classes had been held in old Abbott Hall which proved entirely inadequate as a dormitory, and laboratory for cooking, sewing, and girls' calisthentics. The location and lighting of the various rooms are expressly designed for the various types of class room and laboratory work.

AND NOTES ON THE DIVISION

Since 1870, Michigan State has been one of the foremost co-educational institutions in the country. Co-education did not become firmly established, however, until the organization of the Home Economics Division in 1896 with an enrollment of nine women. The division was originally housed in old Abbott Hall, but the construction of the present building offered new facilities and means for expansion.

The division is subdivided into seven groups at the present time; General, Foods and Nutrition, Institution Administration, Clothing and Textiles, Related Arts, Vocational, and a five year course in Home Economics and Nursing.

The education offered by the division trains women for the various tasks of home making such as the care and training of children, the maintaining of the security of the home, and the wise clothing and feeding of the family. In addition, girls are prepared for several varied types of positions such as extension workers, cafeteria and restaurant managers, dietitians, stylists, experimental foods workers, teachers of various phases of Home Economics, and social service workers.

As an organization which represents one of the three largest divisions on campus, the Home Economics Club fulfills a variety of needs. The objects of the society are many, the main theme of the group being to bring Home Economics students together in a closer unity of purpose. In this way they may discuss subjects of common interest and keep in touch with new developments in the field. As an indication of the wide range of activities carried on by the department and Club, courses of study are offered in diets and nutrition, costume design, clothing, hygiene, care and training of children, interior decoration and home management.

All four year Home Economics students are eligible for membership in the organization, and, as the present roll numbers 303, it is evident that the group is representative of a department which, since its beginning in 1896 with an enrollment of nine students, has continued to grow until it now occupies an entire building of its own. The club is affiliated with the Michigan and also the American Home Economics Association.

Alpha chapter of the national honorary Home Economics sorority was founded at State in 1913 and is composed of those students of Home Economics who rank highest scholastically in that division. Membership is determined through the use of elections held twice each year, during fall and winter terms. The purpose of the honorary is the furtherance of high scholarship, leadership and more intensive research among the members within the field of Home Economics.

During the school year the group sponsors lectures by outstanding faculty members and research workers, and frequently holds meetings open to all Home Economics students, whether or not they are members. In line with the purpose of furthering high scholarship, the organization annually presents the Snyder Scholarship Cup to the Sophomore Home Economics student who has ranked highest in scholastic achievement during her Freshman year. The group sponsors a tea each spring term to honor the students who have attained listing on the honor roll for the year and as an added service to the school conducts each term the sale of uniforms worn by all students in this division.

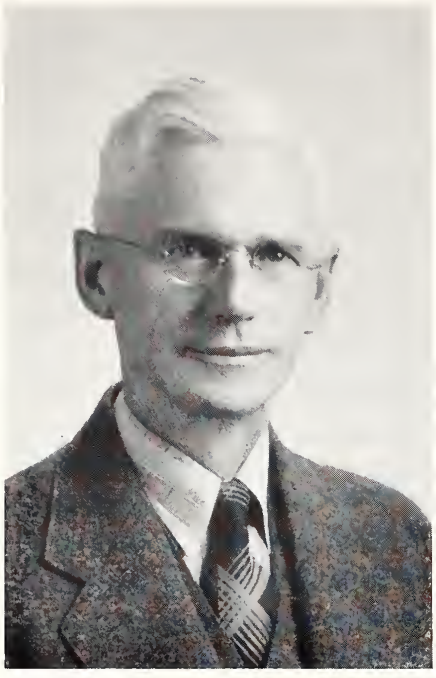
VETERINARY SCIENCE

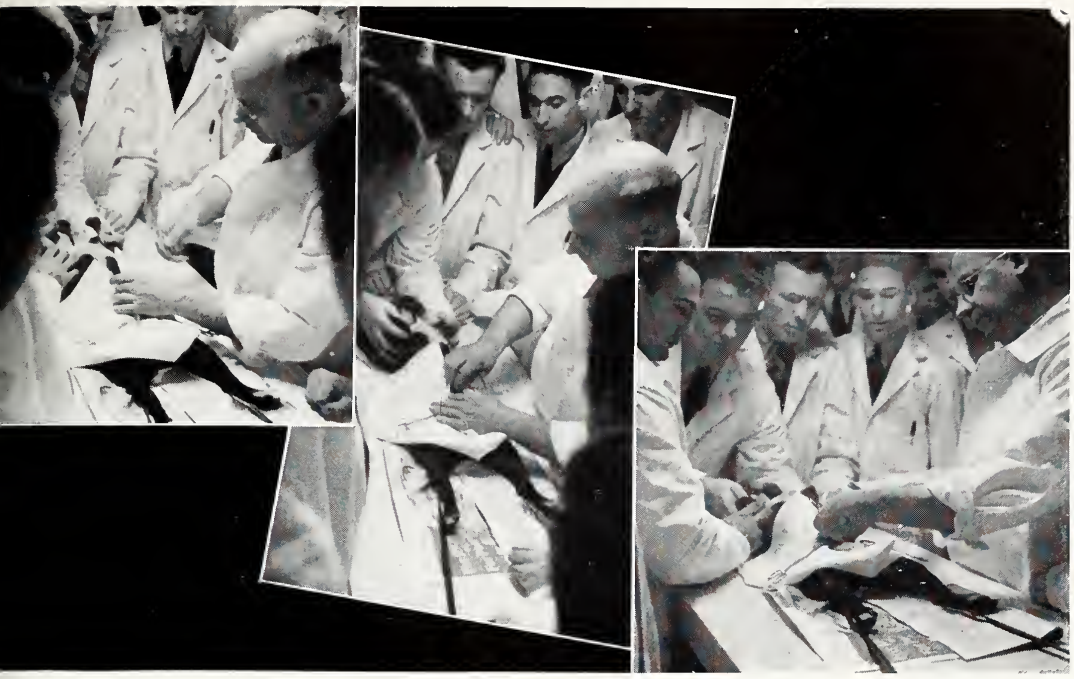
THE DEAN, THE BUILDING,



DEAN GILTNER

Dean Ward Giltner, M.S., D.V.M., D.P. H., serves as Dean of the Division of Veterinary Science and Professor of Bacteriology and Hygiene. Dean Giltner first came to State as a Research Assistant in the Experiment Station way back in 1905. In 1912 he became Acting Professor of Bacteriology, and in 1923 he assumed his present position as Dean. During his 34 years at State he has won world acclaim for his work in Veterinary Science and Bacteriology.

The Veterinary Surgery and Clinic pictured here is now concealed by the new addition which stands between it and the campus roadway. The old building is arranged for hospital, clinic, laboratory, diagnosis, and surgical purposes. Both large and small animals are treated here. The new wing, nearly as large as the original clinic, will make the building one of the most modern and well equipped in the nation for educational purposes.



AND INFORMATION ON THE COURSE

The Division of Veterinary Science offers two courses; the Veterinary Course, and Medical Biology. The first leads to a degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine and the second to a Bachelor of Science in Medical Biology. The Division is well equipped, and the instructors are some of the best in the nation. The renown of the Veterinary Course has brought students here from all over the United States to take the five year course.

Graduates of the Veterinary Course are eligible to enter private practice, to take competitive examinations for inspection work in the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, for the U. S. Army Veterinary Service, and for State and municipal veterinary control.

The Medical Biology Course prepares students for positions in hospital laboratories, physicians' and surgeons' clinics, and federal, state, and municipal health laboratories. It also equips the especially adapted student for commercial and research laboratory work requiring a technical knowledge of Medical Biology.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The Junior Section of the American Veterinary Medicine Association, which was founded at Michigan State College in 1927, is a subordinate chapter of the national A. V. M. A. Any undergraduate student studying in the Veterinary Medicine division is eligible for membership, No faculty members are affiliated with the Junior branch, all being members of the national organization. In addition to the group's educational program, members are given an opportunity at business meetings and social functions to become better acquainted with their associates both in the student body and faculty. Each year the organization presents the "Medicine Ball" in conjunction with those students who are taking their major work in the pre-medical curriculum.

In pursuing their educational program, speakers who are well qualified by actual service in the Veterinary field are asked to present topics of mutual interest to the members. Some of the speakers who have appeared during the school year 1938-39 are: Dr. Clark, Michigan state Veterinarian; Dr. C. M. Hamilton, of Detroit, speaking of "Small Animal Practice;" Dr. L. A. Merillat, executive secretary of the national A. V. M. A.; and Dr. Ericson of Charlotte presenting moving pictures taken in the field. Others were: Dr. LaCroix of Chicago presenting the subject of "Small Animal Medicine;" Dr. Wilson of the Detroit Health Service who spoke on work in the Detroit dog pound; Dr. E. E. Hamann, who spoke concerning "Bang's Disease;" and Dr. H. J. Stafseth of the Bacteriology department on "Veterinary Practice in Norway." Dr. Stafseth is also the chapter adviser. The series was concluded by: Dr. C. F. Cairy of the Physiology department; Dr. E. K. Sales of the Surgery and Clinic department, who lectured on the work of the Veterinarian during the World War; Dr. C. L. Cole of the Animal Husbandry faculty and Jack Carter, also of the Animal Husbandry department.

Iota chapter of Alpha Psi, a national honorary Veterinary fraternity founded at Ohio State University in 1906, was installed at Michigan State in 1914. Membership to the group is limited to students who have excelled in work in the Veterinary sciences. This includes the two courses offered by the Veterinary Science division, the Veterinary course leading to the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine, and the Medical Biology course giving a degree of Bachelor of Science in Medical Biology.

The object of the fraternity is to promote the interests of the profession of Veterinary Medicine, as well as to establish, foster and develop high standards of scholarship, character and leadership and a spirit of fellowship among its members. The organization hears speakers during the year relate subjects of special interest to the student, such as new or unusual diseases among pets and live stock and their cures. Aid is offered to those interested in opportunities for graduates outside of the Veterinarians private practice, such as teaching and work in biological and pharmaceutical laboratories and stock farms.

APPLIED SCIENCE

THE DEAN, THE BUILDING,

DEAN HUSTON

Dean Ralph C. Huston, Ph.D., Dean of the Division of Applied Science and Professor of Organic Chemistry, came to Michigan State 28 years ago as an Assistant Professor of Chemistry. Four years later he was appointed Associate Professor of Chemistry, and in 1925 he was named Professor of Organic and Bio-Chemistry. In 1930 he became Dean of the division.

The Kedzie Chemical Laboratory, which houses Dean Huston's office, was opened for classes in the fall of 1927. The building takes its name from Robert C. Kedzie, a former president of this college and Professor of Chemistry. The structure is 162 by 182 feet in dimension, three stories high, and provides instruction for more than 2400 students in chemistry.

AND INFORMATION ON THE DIVISION

The Division of Applied Science is composed of eight departments of the college; Botany, Chemistry, Entomology, Geology, Physics, Physical Education, Physiology, and Zoology. Four different courses are offered, all leading to the Bachelor of Science Degree; The Applied Science Course, Physical Education for Men, Physical Education for Women, and Police Administration.

The Applied Science Course intends to develop within the student not only a sound fundamental knowledge of the sciences pursued, but also to indicate clearly the application of science in the fields of industry, agriculture, and the arts. The first two or three years of this course will also serve to prepare students for entrance into dental colleges or medical colleges of Class A rating.

The newer five year Police Administration Course is rapidly gaining popularity as a result of the campaign for law enforcement in recent years. All of the facilities of the Michigan State Police, including instructors and equipment, are at the disposal of the department. Graduates are placed with federal, state, municipal, or industrial police forces, usually in the capacity of technical experts.

The future guardians of our life and property, those registered in the five year Police Administration curriculum of the school of Applied Science, in April of 1938 joined in forming what has come to be known as Homines Legis. The organization is a local professional fraternity limited to those students in the course who have attained a Junior status. All members are eligible for election as officers with the exception of those who are in their term at the Michigan State Police barracks.

Homines Legis attempts to instill in its members a greater interest in scientific police work and administration and to facilitate and promote cooperation and fellowship among them and between members and those men who have already made their mark in the field of administration of police activities. Not only do speakers appear before the organization to explain what has and can be done in the practical application of what has been learned in the class room, but the members often travel to various state and city police posts to see these applications in practice.

The honoring of undergraduate students in the Applied Science and Liberal Arts divisions is the purpose for which Tau Sigma was founded as a local organization. It encourages and attempts to foster a high scholarship not only among its members but among all students at Michigan State. The group awards each year a prize to each of two Sophomores, one from each of the two divisions represented in its membership, who have attained the highest scholastic standing during their Freshman year. A pamphlet containing effective "study hints" is edited and distributed to college students in an effort to increase the effectiveness of their study habits, with higher scholarship as the result.

Tau Sigma was founded as an honorary Applied Science fraternity during 1923, but upon the institution here in 1924 of the division of Liberal Arts, the scope of the organization was increased in order to include students of the newly formed curriculum. Members are chosen from those students in the two divisions who have attained an average honor point rating in all their courses of not less than 2.15.

LIBERAL ARTS

THE DEAN, THE BUILDING,

DEAN EMMONS

Dean Lloyd C. Emmons, A.M., Dean of the Division of Liberal Arts and Professor of Mathematical Statistics came to Michigan State as an Instructor in Mathematics in 1909. He later became Research Professor of Institutional Administration, and in 1934 he was named Acting Dean of the Division. One year later he was appointed Dean of the Division of Liberal Arts.

The Library, opened in 1925, stands on the site of old Williams Hall. It comprises approximately 127,000 volumes, including more than 9,000 bound federal documents, and more than 850 bound volumes of newspapers. The College Library is associated with the State Library, and students are permitted to draw books from that library through presentation of a card from the Library of the College.

AND A BIT ABOUT LIBERAL ARTS

The Liberal Arts Division is the newest of the six academic divisions on the campus. The Division was first authorized in 1924 and was offered in the year 1924-25. Since then, it has grown so rapidly that close to a third of the student body are enrolled in this division.

The purpose of the Liberal Arts Division is twofold. The first stated purpose is to serve all of the technical divisions of the College by presenting those courses of a cultural nature which are basic to any college curriculum. The second is to combine the work of the various departments necessary for the technical divisions so that a student may pursue liberal courses leading to a degree as Bachelor of Arts. To accomplish this, four curricula have been developed; Liberal Arts, Business Administration, Hotel Administration, and Music. These curricula are planned to give the student a broad general education and a sufficient amount of training in at least one field to prepare him for his life's work.

The Liberal Arts Course is further subdivided by the various major subjects a student may elect. At present those offered as majors are Art, Economics, Literature, Journalism and Composition, Speech and Dramatics, History and Political Science, French, German, Spanish, Mathematics, Music, Philosophy and Psychology, and Sociology.

The Michigan Board of Agriculture on June 12, 1912, officially authorized the establishment at State of a committee responsible for the annual presentation of a series of lectures by nationally and internationally famous personalities. That committee, now known as the Lecture Course Board, is composed of two faculty and two student members, the latter elected each year at the winter term elections. The board attempts to present a well-rounded program appealing to a variety of interests, and its activities are financed by a blanket tax included in the student fees.

Since the organization of the Board there have been presented to the student body such notable leaders of their day as: Jane Addams of Hull House, ex-president Taft, Alfred Noyes, John Masefield, Carl Sandburg, Lew Sarrett, Amelia Earhart, Senator Nye, Lowell Thomas, Ted Shawn's dancers. During the school year 1938-39 the Board has succeeded in securing the services of Congressman Maury Maverick, Ruth Bryan Owen Rhode, Tony Sarg, traveller Sidney Montague, sculptor Carl C. Mose, deep-sea diver Max Gene Nohl, Dr. George Earl Raiguel, and the Honorable Aubrey Williams.

The name Beta Alpha Sigma was formed by taking the three Greek words representing the first letters of "Beautiful Arts Society." These three first letters represent the three English words, "beauty," "achievement" and "scholarship." The organization is a local honorary for Art, Floriculture and Landscape Architecture majors. The aims and purposes are to promote scholarship attainment and to advance the appreciation and knowledge of architecture and allied arts, to foster good fellowship among the members and to establish cordial relations among students, educators and professional men in these fields. Membership is divided into four general classes, active, alumni, associate and honorary. Any Junior or Senior student majoring in Landscape, Art or Floriculture is eligible for active membership. He or she must have a "B" average in the major of the aforesaid subject for three or more terms or be recommended by the faculty of the department concerned and be voted upon for admission by the active members. Associate membership with voting power is available to persons actively connected with the staff and engaged in instructive or research work.

Fall term of 1930 saw the inception of Sigma Epsilon as a local honorary fraternity composed of both undergraduate and graduate students majoring in the Economics and Business Administration division of the school of Liberal Arts, together with staff members in the department of Economics. Since membership is limited to a maximum of forty at any one time, candidates are chosen from those undergraduate men students who have attained an honor point average in all courses of 1.5 during the three terms immediately preceding their election.

The purpose of the organization is to bring about and to maintain a friendly relationship among its student and faculty members. This purpose is carried out by devoting its semi-monthly meetings to social activities and discussion of causes and effects of current developments in the fields of business and economics. From time to time representative speakers from the world of business and public service are invited to present such developments and problems to the group and occasionally open showings of industrial films are held.

Michigan Delta chapter was founded at Michigan State on June 8, 1921, as a branch of Pi Kappa Delta, the national honorary speech fraternity. Not a scholastic honorary, the organization requires only that candidates for membership shall have, during their college career, proved themselves worthy by participation in intercollegiate contests in debate, oratory or extemporaneous speaking. In addition to its student membership, instuctors in public speaking courses and debate and oratory coaches may become members if they so desire.

Pi Kappa Delta's only objective is to stimulate progress in, and to promote the interests of, intercollegiate oratory, debate and other forms of public speaking. This goal is accomplished by encouraging and fostering a spirit of fellowship and cooperation among the members at colleges and universities throughout the country and by conferring upon deserving candidates a badge of distinction, proficiency and honor. Aside from the intercollegiate aspect of the organization's activities, student members of the local chapter receive valuable assistance in increasing their proficiency in the various forms of public speaking by practice sessions and informal discussions concerning practical problems and their best solution. A new effort to create student interest and participation in public speaking was instituted during the 1938-39 school year in the form of the intra-mural debate tournament, sponsored jointly by the Speech department and Pi Kappa Delta.

Students carrying the major part of their college work in the Hotel Administration department of the division of Liberal Arts, feeling a need for a closer fellowship among themselves, formed the Michigan State College Hotel Association as a local organization. Any Hotel student who shows especial interest in this work is eligible to become a member of the association.

By making it possible for undergraduates with similar interests and aspirations to meet informally with each other at regular intervals, the organization has carried out the basic objective. Not only are members given opportunities to discuss with each other and with faculty members the work that they are preparing to make their career following graduation, but prominent hotel executives are invited to the campus at frequent intervals to impart to the future hotel men and women some of the experience they have gained through years of service in this field as regards preparation for institutional administration and practical application of what has been learned while in school. Occasional strictly social meetings are held to supplement regular business meetings held by the group.

Sigma Gamma Upsilon is organized for the purpose of furthering interest in the Hotel Administration course at Michigan State College and in the hotel world, and to create a closer relationship between members and professional hotel men. In addition to contacts made with hotel executives by hotel students in completing their required work in hotels and similar institutions, members are given an opportunity to discuss with speakers who are frequently brought to the campus how they may best prepare themselves for work in their chosen field. Such speakers also serve to bring to the members a better insight into problems they will be called upon to face in the future, and how these problems may best be solved.

Any undergraduate student who has proved himself to be outstanding in scholarship, professional interest and service in the Hotel Administration curriculum may be elected to membership in Sigma Gamma Upsilon. In addition to these requirements, prospective members must have received actual experience in hotel or institutional work before being eligible for membership. Social and business meetings are held regularly throughout the school year.

La Cofradia is a local Spanish honorary for students who have completed one year of college Spanish with a grade of "B" or better and have enrolled in a second year course. In addition to this requirement, prospective members must have maintained during that period not less than a "C" average in other college courses.

The purpose of this honorary is to allow those students who have proved their interest in the Spanish language by showing excellent scholarship to assemble in one body in order to speak Spanish and to hear it spoken in a more informal way than is possible in the class room, to acquaint the members with all Spanish speaking nations, and to create and maintain the interest of the members in Spanish customs, ways of living, literature, and history. All of these aims and objectives are accomplished through lectures delivered by students and faculty who have traveled and studied in these countries, moving pictures taken by the lecturers and others, singing, playing games, and carrying on celebrations in the typical Spanish manner.

The membership, both national and local, of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia has and is attempting to develop the best and truest fraternal spirit among those men who are studying in the school of Music with the intention of making this art their profession upon graduation, and to foster and maintain the mutual welfare of musical students. The organization also strives to be of service to its members and all of the country by bringing about an advancement of finer music in America, to create a greater loyalty to the Alma Mater on the part of its members, and to encourage a closer relationship between student, faculty and other professional musicians.

Gamma Epsilon chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia was established at State on November 22, 1938, thus becoming one of the youngest organizations on the campus, though in name only. The group has long been prominent as a local honorary music fraternity for men, Alpha Epsilon Mu. Eligibility for membership requires that the candidate be a Sophomore music student in good standing in all his subjects in the school of Music.

Phi Eta chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, a national honorary music sorority, was established on the Michigan State College campus during January of 1931. Candidates for membership are selected from those Junior and Senior women students in the school of Music who have attained and held a scholastic standing in the upper one-quarter of their respective classes and who have shown high musical attainment.

Above all else, the organization has as its objective the promotion of higher standards of musicianship and scholarship and to foster a close friendship among the students of music in American colleges and schools of Music. The members of Mu Phi Epsilon have been and are constantly working to stimulate greater musical excellence in the entire student body of every school that has a chapter of the national sorority. Aside from these wider goals, the group carries on varied activities on this campus aimed at providing aid to its own members in furthering their musical proficiency and appreciation and forming among them a close cooperation with and understanding of members of the faculty and other professional musicians.

Sigma Alpha Iota was founded on June 12, 1903, at the School of Music of the University of Michigan, and since then it has attained nation-wide recognition and membership. Alpha Lambda chapter was founded at State in April, 1930. The national organization is affiliated with the National Women's Professional Panhellenic Association and the National Federation of Music Clubs. Active members of this national professional music fraternity for women may be either recognized professional musicians, teachers, graduates, or college undergraduates pursuing a course leading to a degree in music, who have shown excellent scholarship and have faculty recommendation, and who give promise of future success as public performers or teachers.

The organization attempts at all times to assist its members in the pursuance of their chosen work and to foster a closer relationship among them. A further service is rendered in the form of a loan fund upon which worthy undergraduate music students may draw in finishing their study. Facilities are maintained by the national organization which may be used by creative artists in the field of music at any time.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Dean Ernst A. Bessey, Ph.D., fulfills the duties of both Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of Botany. In 1911 Dean Bessey came to State as Professor of Botany, and from 1927 to 1930 he served as Acting Dean of Applied Science. His appointment as Dean of the Graduate School was announced in 1930.

Extension Director Robert J. Baldwin heads one of the least known but most important branches of the college. The department makes known to the people of the state all latest developments and findings in the field of agriculture through county agents, sponsors boys' and girls' clubs, and maintains specialists in the fields of agriculture and home economics.

PRESIDENT ROBERT S. SHAW

President Robert Sidney Shaw, for the past 11 years head of Michigan State College, points with pride to the fact that he put the first canoe on the Red Cedar.

"It was 1903," he said, "and I put a 15-foot canoe out on the river. One canoe meant more than it would now, for Michigan State had only about 500 students at that time."

President Shaw was Dean of Agriculture and Director of the Experiment Station from 1908 to 1928. Three times during that period he took over the office of acting president. He was named college president May 27, 1928.

He, always fond of farming, has a tract of land just outside the East Lansing city limits. From this land have been transplanted many of the beautiful trees seen on the campus.

President and Mrs. Shaw, the folks who live in the white house over on the hill, have two children, both of whom are married and live in East Lansing. Daughter Sarah became Mrs. John A. Hannah last summer, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw, Jr. became the proud parents of a baby girl just about a year ago.

GOVERNOR FRANK D. FITZGERALD

After serving only seventy-five days of his second term of office, Governor Fitzgerald died suddenly at his Grand Ledge home, on March 16, of a heart attack. Suffering from the influenza, he was already under a physician's care at the time of his death.

Starting in the state civil service as a clerk in the Secretary of State's office before the World War, Fitzgerald rose in thirty years to head the State Department and serve a term as governor (1934-36). He was defeated by Frank Murphy in 1936 and in turn defeated Murphy in 1938 to return to the governorship.

Governor Fitzgerald was noted for the businesslike administration of his first term, and his keen interest in civic affairs during the period he was not in office. At the time of his death he was a figure of national importance in his party, and was being mentioned as a possible 1940 presidential candidate.

Friendliness was the keynote of his entire career, and he took pride in his ability to make lasting friendships in all walks of life. His most important political positions were Secretary of State 1932-1934, and Governor of Michigan 1934-1936; 1939-1939.

Upon the death of Governor Fitzgerald, Lt. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson succeeded to the governorship.

HASSELBACK

The Student Council is the elective student organization that has jurisdiction over all campus activities, the students' self-governing body. The Council has the power to legislate in regard to student affairs and investigate and make recommendations on all matters between the students and the college. One of its more important responsibilities is that of acting as intermediary between the members of the student body and the faculty, in addition to sponsoring and supervising all general and special college elections, coordination of the programs of the several student honorary, professional and executive organizations, and review of plans for new organizations with the view of accepting or rejecting authorization of such groups. This group of student representatives also controls and investigates from time to time the activities of all honorary fraternities.

The student body is represented on the Council by the president of each class and by representatives-at-large elected by members of those classes as well as by the president or representative of a number of important campus organizations. Among these representative organizations are the Agricultural Council, Panhellenic Council, Associated Women Students, Michigan State News, Spartan Women's League, Interfraternity Council, Independent Men's League, Union Board and Varsity Club. The activities of the Council have been for several years under the able guidance of the Dean of Men, Dr. F. T. Mitchell.

The Student Council is a member of the National Student Federation of America, and the Michigan State College group sends representatives each year to the Federation's national convention. Action taken by the Council during the school year 1938-39 led to the banishment of corsages from all class formals, an action that was fairly generally adopted by other organizations sponsoring formal balls during winter term.

SHAW

Every women student, upon entering Michigan State College, becomes at once and automatically a member of Associated Women Students, which is a local branch of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students. A. W. S. was founded here shortly after 1920. The organization functions as the women students' self-governing body. All of the members cannot, because of the size of the association's membership, take part in all the activities of the group, so they are represented by elected representatives from each class and, in addition, by the presidents or chairmen of each co-ed organization on the campus, with Dean Elizabeth Conrad as an ex-officio member.

In order to serve its members and the college in the most satisfactory manner, the association has been divided into two integral groups, known as the Associated Women Students Council and the Judiciary Board. The Judiciary Board serves as the disciplinary and jurisdictional body, whose duties for the most part consist of defining and interpreting those rules which have been set down by the association as a whole. The other group, the A. W. S. Council, sponsors and supervises the carrying forth to a successful completion activities desired by the women students as formulated from suggestions and plans submitted by the organization heads and the members' elected class representatives. In the past the council has served the women students of the college in this way by establishing and continuing such institutions as the Freshmen Orientation activities, the annual Co-ed Carnival, and the Freshman Lecture system, all making it possible for the new student to make an early acquaintance with the varied campus activities and with their associates. The association also cooperates with Panhellenic Council, S. W. L., Y. W. C. A., Mortar Board, W. A. A., Tower Guard, Home Economics Club, and other co-ed organizations in carrying their own activities to a successful conclusion.

The Union Memorial Building, marking the entrance to the campus and serving as the center of all college activity and as a meeting place for many off-campus organizations, is managed on behalf of the students by the Union Board composed of student and faculty members. The undergraduates of the group are elected at the all-college elections held during winter term, three being named by the Senior class, two by the Juniors and one by Sophomores.

Annual social activities are provided for Spartan men and women in the form of regular semi-weekly tea dances, frequent Union Dances, a dinner-dance preceding the J-Hop, Pre-registration dances, and a party for those who remain on campus during the Thanksgiving holiday. In addition, the Freshmen are given their first opportunity to become acquainted with those with whom they will be associated for four or five years at the yearly Freshman Mixer.

Completed and redecorated last year, the Union was further improved this year by construction of the new and finer Spartan Grille, and a new service was offered to students in the form of Uniongrams.

The editorial policies and activities of the three publications edited entirely by State students come under the general guidance of the Board of Publications, a group composed of representatives both of the students and faculty. The publications themselves are represented on the board by the editor and business managers of the Michigan State News, Wolverine and Spartan, and the student body is represented by, among others, the presidents of the Student Council and A. W. S. Faculty representatives are the College Treasurer, Alumni Secretary, head of the Publications Department, and advisers of the three publications.

The ultimate goal of the Board of Publications is to give students of State the best student publications possible, publications that serve the student body efficiently and well. Members of the board annually elect and decide upon the tenure of office of the managing editors and business managers of the publications, and in addition approve selections of associate editors and business assistants. Salaries to be paid and budgets of the publications come under the review of the board, this group also planning and conducting the annual Publications Banquet.

1939 WOLVERINE

With a $14,000 budget to operate on, "A bigger and better Wolverine" became the motto of the 1939 Wolverine Staff. As to the degree of success attained, for the first time in the history of the book, the 3000 paid circulation mark was exceeded, 500 more than ever before. This book contains 56 more body pages than any previous year's book, and there are well over 4000 individual pictures in the senior panels and classes section. Eighty per cent of all graduating seniors are pictured, which is twelve percent greater than ever achieved in the past.

As to the popularity of the book, it cannot be measured, but the staff hopes, that after close examination, the student body will feel that their cooperation has helped in producing "a bigger and better Wolverine."

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

The State News, in its second year of three morning a week issue, was administered by crusading Ray Turner, the Editor, and converted sports writer Vic Spaniola, the Business Manager.

New this year was the innovation of pictures as a regular part of the make up, and a half page layout of campus events of the week in pictures every Saturday. This idea originated in the mind of Editor Turner, somewhat of a camera bug, and was supervised by Art Editor Tolford.

Two extras hit the streets of East Lansing during the year, one for the annual Football Banquet, and another for the N. P. A. Convention. The latter was put out through the cooperation of the State News and N. W. S.

Of interest also was the rapid turnover of issue editors, making a current check up practically impossible. At various times during the year Walt Rummel, Seth Anderson, Arvid Jouppi, Marshall Dann, Dave Tefft, and Bruce Mair served in that capacity. The high mortality rate on associates resulted from scholastic and health difficulties, the tremendous pace maintained by staff members having had telling effect.

SPARTAN

Out of ten attempts, the Spartan got out one fair issue under the capable guidance of Asst. Editor Hubbell. Editor Wessborg adopted a "Hands Off" policy, for this issue and it naturally met with popular approval.

The outstanding feature of the 1939 version of the Spartan was the advertising, capably handled by Gerry Winter, the Business Manager. Pictures of campus leaders were featured in clothing store ads, and served to sell the magazine.

The Editor, "Bach" Wessborg, kept the magazine from going completely under by spending his time in the Wolverine office, using Wolverine typewriters, and dating Wolverine Staff girls. Had he spent more time on the Spartan, the magazine would have passed out of existence long ago.

Plagarism served to contribute some readable copy, but as soon as this editorial source was discovered, Editor Wessborg was on his own and the publication suffered. Our sympathy and congratulations to his co-workers who so valiantly carried on after the Board of Publications "did them dirt" by naming Eric big-wig of the Spartan.

Realizing a need for organized and concerted activity among the Independent men of this campus, a group of students unaffiliated with any social fraternities and in conjunction with the office of the Dean of Men formed the Independent Men's League in order to better stimulate the interest and to gain that recognition that is essential to the success of any program.

In addition to promoting wider interest in campus problems and activities and scholastic improvement, the I. M. L. sponsors each year such varied activities as the nationally famous Date Bureau run in cooperation with The Athenians, the popular and syccessful "Michigan State Frolic of the Air" prepared jointly with S. W. L., and the Transportation Bureau, where students wishing rides to or from East Lansing and persons with cars but no passengers are brought together. Through an extensive annual athletic program, champion independent teams in touch football, basketball, and baseball are chosen, which teams compete with the fraternity champions. Victorious debating teams are determined in the same way. Not the least important of the activities are the parties presented once each term during the school year.

Founded in 1936 by the Spartan Women's League, The Athenians, an organization of independent women of Michigan State College, has rapidly risen to prominence. It is a social group composed only of non-sorority women. Its principle aim is to provide a channel of activity for over nine hnudred independent women on campus. Friendship among all M. S. C. women is its purpose. Women intending to join sororities are invited to become Athenians until they are pledged. Since they aim to provide members with extra-curricular activities they have several different programs. They assist the W. A. A. in arranging schedules and sponsoring women's athletic contests. The Athenians take part in organizing fireside faculty conferences. Every year a dance is given, the party having been held this year on December 2. Interest groups are organized in such subjects as the crafts and music, to enable members to learn and enjoy. Meetings are held every other Monday evening, with lectures and discussions on current affairs. The group operated a booth at the Co-ed Carnival, and worked with the Independent Men's League in maintaining the Date Bureau.

SPARTAN WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Local

S. W. L. is a local organization of women students founded in 1931 by two members of the class of '32 in an effort to create a stronger bond of friendship among the co-eds of this college and to develop campus leadership among women. Membership is open to any woman student enrolled at State, whether affiliated with a social sorority or independent. Foremost among the League's activities are the annual publication of a campus etiquette book, participation in the yearly Co-ed Carnival, assistance in the orientation of Freshman students, and cooperation with the Independent Men's League in presenting the "Michigan State Frolic of the Air" weekly. Athletic teams are organized each year for participation in intra-mural games.

In an effort to assure greater efficiency of service, and in order that no possible opportunity for good work is overlooked, the League has been divided into various groups; art, dramatics, radio, social and social service. In this way the organization hopes to aid all college women by offering each one a well-developed and controlled branch to appeal to her particular interests.

Student Club was founded to satisfy a desire on the part of many students for creative, varied, democratic and inexpensive social activities, and any undergraduate who is in accord with this purpose is welcomed as a member. Originated as a local organization in 1935, the group is sponsored for the benefit of the college student by Peoples Church. Many splendid opportunities are offered to the member for increasing his or her own abilities as a leader in recreational activities in addition to enjoying leadership on the part of others.

In carrying out these purposes, the club offers parties catering to a variety of individual interests and planned in accordance with the change of the seasons every Friday evening during the school year. These parties offer such diversions as folk dancing, social dancing, circle games, hikes, dramatics, skating, swimming, music, picnics, all serving to bring students more closely together. The organization is governed by a cabinet of twelve students, the members of which are elected by the cabinet and members and assisted by a faculty adviser and two directors of the Church.

THE DIRECTOR, PRESIDENT,

Although the Men's Glee Club is of necessity a volunteer group, it has through the years of its existence become widely known not only on the Michigan State College campus but throughout the state as well. The men composing the club practice long and hard, and their work culminates in programs presented before various musical organizations in widely scattered communities throughout Michigan as well as in Lansing and East Lansing and on the campus during such events as Farmers' Week, the May Morning Sing, and the Christmas Concert.

Not all of the club's activities, however, take the form of hard work and formal concerts. During fall and spring terms informal get-togethers, for the most part in the form of smokers, are held to give the members a chance to enjoy that fellowship which, together with service, are the bases upon which all such men's organizations are founded. Each winter term the Club takes advantage of the formal party season to sponsor one of their own, one of the few formal parties at State sponsored by a single organization.

Since the group's reorganization in 1932, it has grown into an inspirational as well as a very active club. Members are accepted from any division of the college, and the only requirements a candidate must meet are good character, acceptance by the older members as a "good fellow" and the ability to carry a tune. The latter qualification is determined by an open try-out before the director. Since top membership in the Glee Club is set at sixty, successful candidates who find no vacancies are placed on a waiting list until such openings occur. Continuous and faithful service in the organization is rewarded at the end of two years by the presentation of a key awarded by the college.

The Women's Glee Club was organized under the present music system during 1927, and membership is open to any student, whether or not she is registered in the department of Music. Application is by open try-out before the director, and members are selected not only for excellent musical ability but the manner in which their voices will blend with others in group singing is taken into consideration as well.

The objective of the organization is to give to all women students an opportunity to take an active part in some musical activity and to develop thereby a growth in musical ability. The Glee Club rehearses three times weekly, one of these rehearsals being with the combined Chorus, membership in which is compulsory for members of the Club. Programs are presented each year not only on the campus, but before various musical organizations throughout the state, one of these occasions this year being a program sung before the Lansing "Matinee Musicale." At least one campus concert is presented each year, and awards are presented to members for continued faithful service over a period of years.

Men's Journalism Fraternity
Local

The initials N., W., and S., which at the same time constitute the full name of the organization, indicate that its members are drawn from the staffs of the Michigan State News, Wolverine and Spartan. Eligibility for membership requires that the candidate be a Junior or a Senior who has previously served not less than two terms on the staff of one of the three student publications, and who has attained a scholastic average not less than .1 honor point above the average for the entire student body. NWS is one of the youngest organizations on the campus, having been organized during the fall term of the 1938-39 school year.

Although a comparatively new group, NWS has taken a considerable part in campus activities. Its members published the 1938-39 Student Directory, sponsored and carried out a radio program in the form of a news dramatization every Saturday, and sponsored the first annual Michigan Collegiate Press Conference during winter term. Weekly business meetings are held and regular bi-weekly luncheon meetings feature talks by prominent newspaper men on some form of journalism.

THETA ALPHA PHI

National Honorary Dramatics Fraternity
Michigan Delta Chapter

Theta Alpha Phi is the national honorary dramatics fraternity, recognizing ability in all fields of drama, including acting, directing and back-stage committee work. The local chapter, Michigan Delta, was established here in 1924. Its purpose is to promote interest in and to continually improve the quality of drama in all its phases at Michigan State College. Candidates for membership must have at some time during their college career taken part in one capacity or another in some play, presented by dramatics classes, Studio Theatre or the college. This requirement may be filled by back-stage work as well as acting in the plays.

One all-college play is sponsored each term by Theta Alpha Phi, some Shakespearian drama being the one presented each spring term in the new band shell. To get and maintain interest among students who have not as yet fulfilled all the requirements for membership, the organization established the Studio Theatre this year, a project which is rapidly making progress. Monthly meetings are held, consisting for the most part of one-act plays, skits and monologues, presented and prepared entirely by members of the fraternity.

Y. M. C. A.

Spartan Chapter

Perhaps the best way to present the function of the Y. M. C. A. is to quote from the organization's Constitution. It is "a fellowship of students and faculty men who are seeking to give expression to the Christian religion which is intellectually mature, emotionally satisfying, and socially adequate for the day in which we live and future we face."

The Spartan "Y" program, in addition to its regular bi-weekly meetings, includes cooperation in such activities as Frosh Week, for helping freshmen start off on the right foot; faculty fireside groups held in the homes of faculty members; religious lecture series, the purpose of which is to present the ideas of well known religious leaders; community service committee, organized to carry on social service projects; and the world affairs committee, whose goal is the defining of our relations to international problems. Other activities are the student movement committee, for promoting cooperation between the Spartan "Y" and the organization on other campuses, and the odd-time employment service and loan fund, actively assisting students in financing their education.

Young Women's Christian Association of Michigan State College, an affiliate of the National Y. W. C. A., Student Department, and the World Student Christian Federation, was founded on this campus in October 1894. It welcomes all girls on campus into its membership. The group engages in numerous commendable activities. In the fall a trip was made to one of the international settlements in Detroit, where a study was made of conditions.

During winter term the Y. W. C. A. held a "Snow Tea," which is a discussion and tea with faculty women. During Christmas time of each year the girls do their most noteworthy work. A party with toys and presents for all plus a real Santa Claus is held for a large group of underprivileged children of the community. In addition members help to make and repair a large variety of dresses, dolls and animals for children. In addition to this weekly meetings are offered in such varied forms as informal discussions, speakers, study groups, fireside suppers and conferences. Special interests are encouraged by group work in publicity, handicraft, social service, dramatics, music, world fellowship, program and religion.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity composed of college students who have been or are now active in the work of the Boy Scouts of America. Beta Beta chapter was established at Michigan State on April 24, 1937. Membership in the organization is open to any college student who is in accord with the precepts of clean living and service to the community as taught by the B. S. A. and who is anxious to continue in the most effective manner what service he can render individually or in the group to the college.

A. P. O. assists the college authorities or other student organizations in any way possible. One of the group's projects during the year was the handling of the distribution of the 1938-39 Student Directory. Regular business meetings are held, but that fellowship that is so necessary to the success of any organization is not neglected. In addition to their faculty advisers, Alpha Phi Omega has as its scouting adviser Mr. C. A. Neitz, chief executive of the Chief Okemos Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Orchesis has as its purpose the promotion of interest in the art of the dance. It affords an excellent medium of expression for those women students who have engaged in more or less basic courses in dancing and who wish to attain further development in this particular art, thereupon enriching their sense of beauty as regards one form and at the same time giving to them a better understanding of the fundamental elements in all the art forms. Each term this group has as a part of its program one major dance activity. It has in the past cooperated chiefly with the Music department in its public performances.

The organization is a national dancing honorary, the local chapter having been established at Michigan State College in 1928. Any woman student who is especially interested in the Art of the Dance and who has formerly shown particular promise in this form is eligible to become a member of the group. The candidate may not, however, become an active member immediately, it being required that she spend a certain period as a try-out member.

To quote from a descriptive pamphlet published by the organization, "the Student Christian Union unites the college students of Peoples Church in the purpose: to achieve a Christian personality after the pattern of Jesus; to seek a fuller understanding, one of another, in the interest of happy relations in home and community; to work for a united Church, practicing Christian freedom and definitely promoting the program of Jesus; to secure equal rights and opportunities for all classes and races as equally the children of God; to practice a Christian patriotism which recognizes the authority of God in conscience as supreme; to strive for justice in the social order which will afford an abundant life for all; to work for such international organization of nations as will preserve peace and security."

Student Christian Union was organized under the sponsorship of Peoples Church in cooperation with the college, and any student of State who is in accord with the principles and ideals of the organization is eligible for membership. Worship, social activities, discussions and speakers constitute a part of the group's annual program.

All members of the Lutheran Church are considered members of the Lutheran Student Club if they attend meetings, and no fee is required. The aims and objectives of the organization are to bring the many students of this faith into closer fellowship with one another, stimulate interest in study of the Bible and Church attendance, and to assist students with personal problems and to help them make the necessary adjustments between college and home life.

The club is a member of the Lutheran Student Association of America, whose headquarters are at Chicago, and which is divided into nine regions, the local organization being included in the Ohio Valley Region.

In addition to regular devotional-fellowship meetings and other social activities annual banquets are held with clubs in other nearby colleges. Also each year regional conferences are held which are attended by groups in colleges and universities of five states. The last such conference was held in Greenville, Pennsylvania, and the next event will be held at Michigan State College in the fall of 1939.

The cavalry principles of mobility, surprise, and fire power as applied to present day conditions of warfare are stressed in the Cavalry unit. This year about sixty horses and equipment were at the disposal of the unit, with a total value of approximately $13,000.

The Cavalry is the smallest of the four branches, consisting of 364 basic students and 53 advanced students. Work in the Cavalry Unit leads to a commission in the Cavalry Reserve.

The Field Artillery instruction includes the purpose, operation, and movement of modern motorized field artillery. The special equipment is very modern and is considered some of the finest of its type in the Army. It consists of eight 75mm guns, 18 motor vehicles, numerous fire control instruments, and wire and radio communication equipment.

Although but three years old, the unit is the largest of the four, having 652 basic students and 94 advanced. Four years' work in the unit leads to a Field Artillery Reserve commission.

Company "D" of the Third Regiment of the organization named in honor of General Pershing was established at Michigan State College in 1934. Membership is open to any student taking a basic or advanced military science course, although the organization attempts particularly to promote interest in military science and tactics among Freshmen and Sophomores.

Although the organization does not entirely disregard social and fellowship activities, it is almost entirely a drill organization, working at all times to bring their close order drill and manual of arms to a close perfection. Each spring the national organization sponsors an intercollegiate drill meet, in which many of the schools having chapters of Pershing Rifles are represented. Due to the many intricacies of military drill, most of the chapter's meetings are devoted to intensive practice that brings the members close to their goal of perfect coordination and form. In order to finance their activities, the organization presents annually a dancing party taking on the aspect of an informal military ball. Practices and business meetings are often interspersed with social meetings and smokers.

Mortar and Ball was founded for the purpose of encouraging, developing and preserving the highest ideals of the military profession, promoting American citizenship and fostering a closer and more efficient relationship between the men in the service. More specifically the organization strives at all times to instill in the hearts of all deep-thinking college men of today and the future the need of the United States for the Officers Reserve Corps, the Reserve Officers Training Corps and the National Defense Act, thereby creating in these men a desire to become Reserve Officers. Appropriate recognition is provided for a high degree of military ability among the cadet officers of the senior R. O. T. C. units of American universities and colleges.

The organization is a national Coast Artillery honorary whose members are selected from those men who have proved themselves outstanding in the advanced Coast Artillery Corps and whose qualifications are based on achievements in both military and college work, leadership, honesty and friendliness. Mortar and Ball was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1920, and the local chapter, Battery E., First Regiment, was established in 1930.

Scabbard and Blade is a national military organization founded at the University of Wisconsin in the fall of 1904. The organization is modeled along the lines of the United States Army, the Michigan State College unit being designated as K Company of the first Regiment, having been chartered in 1914. Advanced students in the R. O. T. C. courses who have shown outstanding abilities in the military sciences and who have the requisite scholastic standing are eligible to become members of the group.

This organization is based on the belief that military service is an obligation of citizenship and that the greater opportunities afforded college men for the study of military science place upon them certain responsibilities as citizens. It attempts to unite in a closer relationship the military departments of American universities and colleges, preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers, and to prepare the members to take a more active part and to have a greater influence in military affairs of their communities, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country.

Classes—wherein lies the spirit of the campus. This section pictures for you the underclassmen together with all class officers. Class honoraries and the Water Carnival also have their place in this division of the book, as well as occasional party and class activity shots.

CLASSES

Beaumont Tower, gift of John Beaumont, rises majestically at the axis of the campus. A symbol of culture and beauty, the Tower becomes deeply emblazoned upon the minds of all who become acquainted with it. Revered and remembered by alumni, Beaumont Tower stands unchanging, to recall memories of bygone college days.

WATER CARNIVAL

FRED ARNOLD

The Water Carnival, senior class project, is held annually during the closing days of Spring Term. This year, thirty-six floats, elaborately decorated and accompanied by appropriate music, will portray the theme of the Carnival, "Quests". The theme, selected by members of the Speech and Music departments from among entries submitted in a campus wide contest, was originated and elaborated by Ruth Kittredge and William Dewey, and will dramatize the quests; quests for power, religious freedom, prestige, truth; quests for those things desired by mankind.

Mortar Board, National Senior Women's Honorary, was first established at Michigan State College in 1933, succeeding the local Sphinx organization. Qualifications for membership are scholarship of creditable standing, leadership, and service to our Alma Mater. Advisers are Dean Elizabeth Conrad, Miss Elizabeth Daniels, and E. B. Hill. Honorary members are Mrs. R. S. Shaw and Mrs. L. C. Emmons.

Major projects for this year have been the sponsorship of the Marriage Relations Series started by last year's group, sponsorship and cooperation with other campus organizations in arranging the Faculty Student Informal Coffee Hours held in the Union Lounge, and leadership in the third annual Vocational Guidance Conference committee. During the year, a social gathering was held honoring coeds working in East Lansing homes, and a "Smarty" party was given honoring sophomore, junior, and senior girls with outstanding scholastic averages. Mortar Board has also started the sale of the new M. S. C. songbooks.

EXCALIBER

Excaliber is a local organization on Michigan State campus which binds together the outstanding senior activity men of the college. Its purpose is to recognize achievement in student leadership along various fields. The membership is restricted to 13. Tapping for Excaliber occurs twice a year. At the first tapping, held at the Water Carnival, eight junior men are tapped by the senior organization. The remaining five men are selected by the eight new members at the Excaliber fall term dance.

This year, Excaliber is cooperating with Mortar Board, its sister organization, in sponsoring the Marriage Lectures for seniors. Excaliber members have a weekly informal luncheon meeting at which time they meet with their new faculty adviser, Captain David Taylor.

To the freshmen, the blue robes of Excaliber symbolize the ultimate aim of a B. M. O. C. To these select seniors, they symbolize collegiate success.

BLUE KEY

Blue Key, National Honorary Fraternity, has been national on Michigan State campus since March 10, 1927. Inasmuch as this chapter was the only one in the national organization that was a Junior honorary, this year a new constitution has been drawn up making the organization a Junior and Senior honorary in keeping with the national requirements.

Blue Key is a fraternity in which men get together to discuss ways and means of cooperation with the faculty to promote the welfare of the student body, and the best interests of the institution. Each chapter follows a model constitution, but has the authority to adapt it to suit local needs. In selecting members, the fraternity recognizes qualities in character, scholarship, student activities, leadership and service. Blue Key is strictly a student organization but prominent faculty men and outstanding alumni may be taken as honorary members. President Robert S. Shaw was recently made an honorary member.

In its twelfth year on campus, this group rendered great assistance to both administration and students. Sponsoring of lecture courses, orientation of freshmen, conduction of all-college elections, and revival of campus traditions were but a few of their many services.

Tower Guard is an organization composed of from fifteen to twenty-five of those sophomore women who, by spring term of their freshman year have completed two terms of Michigan State College showing outstanding qualities of character, scholarship, potential leadership, and service. The members of Tower Guard are active only during their sophomore year and are considered alumnae during their junior and senior years.

The prospective Tower Guard members are tapped at the annual May Morning Sing. The purposes of Tower Guard are to work together for the good of the college and the women students, to further the aims of aspiring and progressive womanhood by upholding the high standards of character, scholarship, leadership, and service, to aid and support all worthy campus activities, and to work for the advancement and recognition of Michigan State College.

Advisers for Tower Guard are elected every third year. Mrs. Robert Genne is the present adviser. Honorary members are Mrs. Robert S. Shaw, Dean Elisabeth Conrad, and Dean Marie Dye. The emblem of the Tower Guard society is a tiny replica of Beaumont Tower in gold. Its colors are brick red and cream, and the flower is the talisman rose. Among the activities of Tower Guard are the teas for Lansing and East Lansing freshmen women, the annual dance in September, the tea for Tower Guard Alumnae members, cooperation with Mortar Board on Lantern Night, and assisting with A. W. S. on the Freshman Counsellor System.

Recognizing a definite need on Michigan State Campus for an honorary men's sophomore organization, active sophomores founded Green Helmet on January 26, 1939. The purposes of this group are mainly to recognize and reward high scholarship attained by freshmen. It will serve as a brother organization to Tower Guard and its 2.2 scholarship requirement is the highest of any social or honorary fraternity on our campus.

A program of orientation and vocation guidance will offer a new source of help to the student body. Financial aid is also to be offered to needy and deserving freshmen through the establishment of a loan fund.

MILITARY BALL AND

MILITARY BALL

Colorful and impressive as always, the Military Ball, given by the cadet officers of the R. O. T. C., had Charlie Agnew's band for their formal. The motif for decoration long to be remembered was the revolving anti-aircraft gun of chromium, set in the middle of the ballroom as a focal point of the multi-colored spotlights. Cadet Lieutenant George Levagood was general chairman.

SENIOR BALL

The seniors secured Joe Sanders, "the ole left-hander", for the Senior Ball, thanks to Clarence Dennis, general chairman. In addition to being outstanding for music and decorations, the Senior Ball had unique favors this year. Each couple was presented with an individual photo and picture frame. This was a novel idea and it met with the unanimous approval of all who attended.

J-HOP OF 1939

Dick Nahstoll, general chairman for the J-Hop of the class of '40, kept us in suspense for weeks beforehand, refusing to announce the band for the party. Finally, the big secret was let out, and Henry Busse, he of the "Hot Lips", was named. The J-Hop can't justly be compared to any other formal of the year. Two good reasons for that are the 4 o'clock permission granted co-eds, and the favors. This year, in tune with the candid camera fad around campus, favors were leather photograph albums, complete with several shots ready to paste in.

SOPH PROM

Roland Ely, prom chairman for the class of '41, did right well by his classmates. They had the distinction of being the first class to give their formal, and, in addition, had a band that rates tops—Frankie Trumbauer. There's a strong spirit of rivalry existing between all the classes and especially in the matter of their formals. The sophs can feel justly proud of their party. It rates as one of the best formals of the season.

People here and there at the big formals of winter term. Familiar to party-goers are the pictures of the Military Ball, J-Hop, Senior Ball, Varsity Ball and Soph Prom.

. . . A FEW WINTER TERM FORMALS

In this section are the Spartan athletes, athletic schedules, team and action pictures, coaches and captains, and a resume of each sport for the year 1938-1939. The section is divided into major, minor, and girls' sports.

ATHLETICS

All action does not take place on the playing field, for activity on the sidelines plays an important part in the winning or losing of any game. A study in facial expression is found in this sideline shot taken during the Temple game, the last of the Spartans' 1938 season.

DIRECTOR YOUNG

On the job for a quarter of a century.

That's what they say about Ralph Young, who captains the Spartan athletic ship. Everything from schedule making to the coaching of dashmen on the State track squad comes under the hand of the capable Mr. Young.

For many years Young and John Kobs did all the work themselves. Now Young is the big boss. But he's a busy boss and he still does his share of the work around State athletic headquarters.

AND ASSISTANT DIRECTOR FRIMODIG

If titles mean anything, L. L. Frimodig is certainly a man to be respected.

"Frim" is Assistant Director of Athletics, Associate Professor of Physical Education, Director of Intramural Activities, and Freshman Baseball Coach.

Graduating from Michigan Agricultural College, he returned two years later to accept a minor berth in the Athletic department. While at M. A. C., he starred in football, basketball and baseball, winning three letters in each sport to become one of State's few nine letter men.

Drop around the gym anytime and "Frim" will tell you all about how it felt to play against the immortal George Gipp. "Frim" and "Gipp" used to fight it out during their high school days in the copper country of Northern Michigan.

Varsity Club was organized in 1915 for the purpose of promoting a high standard of athletics and fellowship among varsity athletes. As a further purpose, the organization voluntarily enforces campus tradition. The "no smoking on campus" rule, and particularly the wearing of green pots by frosh at $.35 per pot. The club also grants an award to the senior member with the highest scholastic average during his four years on campus.

Perhaps most important of Varsity Club functions is a regulation of the class games which take place in October. The organization acts as advisor to each class, regulating rules for the occasion and enforcing them, assuring participants of a maximum amount of pleasure with a minimum of injury.

Members of Varsity Club must be upperclassmen in good scholastic standing.

A few shots of prominent athletes plus the addition of such important people as Mrs. Bremer, wife of the Varsity Club president, and Charlie Agnew, Varsity Ball band leader. Recognize Fehr, Bremer, Dudley, Libbers, Greer (we wonder), Alling, Gargett, Robinson, and Adcock?

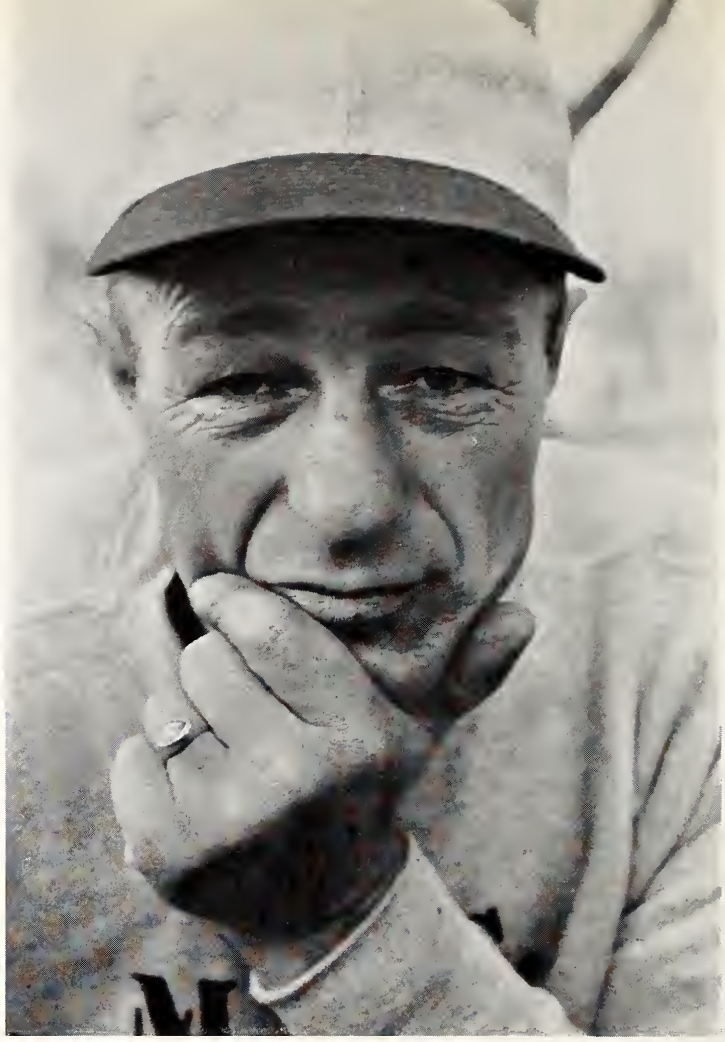
COACH BACHMAN



CHARLIE BACHMAN

"Looking ahead."

This has been Bach's byword since he started coaching. "Bach" originally planned to become a lawyer but decided to coach after he played bang-up football for Notre Dame. Before he began his work at State six years ago he coached De Pauw, Kansas State, Northwestern, where he was known as boy coach of the Big Ten, and Florida. His record here has been most successful, as State has won 38, tied 4, and lost 9 games since his reign began.

Of the 1938 team, "Bach" says that it contained more talent than any other he has ever coached.

Miles Casteel, now head coach at Arizona, graduated from Kalamazoo and has been with State 15 years. He coached the backfield men.

Thomas King, end coach, has been with State six years. He graduated from Notre Dame.

Myron Vandermere has been four years with State as a general assistant. He, too, is a State alumnus.

Gordon Dahlgren is a State man. Last year was his first here. Coaching the line was his job.

Richard Colina is also a State grad. Last year, his first here as a coach, he bossed the reserves.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER PINGEL

JOHN S. PINGEL

1938 RECORD OF JOHN PINGEL

Played 451 minutes out of 540.

Completed 54 of 101 forward passes for 571 yards.

Rushed the ball 110 times for 556 yards, average gain 5.0.

Punted 99 times for 41.8 yard average.

Scored five touchdowns and threw forward passes for seven others.

A few years ago John Spencer Pingel entered Michigan State College. In the interval from then to the present, Johnny has developed into a mighty good football player, as evidenced by the honors bestowed upon him at the end of the 1938 football season.

All-American honors, invitations to the East-West and All Star games, and the Governor's award for being the outstanding player on the squad were all heaped upon Johnny.

Fame did not come overnight for Pingel. It took three struggling years of work, a desire to learn all there was to be known about football, and an unextinguishable spirit of inspired playing to make Pingel great enough to receive these honors.

He began his bid for renown in 1936 when he understudied another great halfback, "Agony" Al Agett. During that year Johnny showed flashes of the form which were destined to make him feared by opponents.

In 1937 Johnny, now a regular left halfback, improved his playing so greatly that he was chosen on the All-Midwest team. This was the year of the Pingel to Nelson combination, which ruined the hopes of many opponents.

But in 1938 Pingel reached his peak. Against Wayne he scored once and passed to Szasz for another touchdown. On a losing State team in the Michigan game, it was Johnny who was the best back on the field. Pingel to Nelson was the order in the West Virginia contest. A Pingel field day came against Syracuse when Johnny scored two touchdowns himself and passed to Nelson for the third. Again it was Pingel who scored in the Santa Clara clash. A passing treat was the dish for Marquette when Johnny tossed touchdown passes to Haney, Kinek, and Amon that meant the game.

Three weeks later: Pingel makes ALL-AMERICAN.

After accepting an invitation to the East-West game, Johnny decided to celebrate and was aided in the celebrating by Isabel Hardy, who allowed Johnny to put a ring on the fourth finger of her left hand.

Worthy of praise was the poise with which Johnny carried his honors. He remained the same likable fellow that he was when he came out for the first scrimmage.

"O. K. gang, 24A and let's make it work!"

They're out of the huddle, up to the line of scrimmage, and the play goes on. The play went on for three years led by one of Michigan State's greatest field generals, Allan "Punchy" Diebold. This former Jackson High School athlete came to the Spartan campus in 1935 and immediately made a name for himself in football and baseball. His popularity was proven this fall when his teammates voted him co-captain of the 1938 Varsity Football team.

ALLEN DIEBOLD

AND CO-CAPTAINS

DAVID DIEHL

Way back in '33 and '34 when "Farmer Boy" Dave Diehl was left-handing his way through the Ingham County Athletic Association for Dansville High, he was dreaming of the time when he would be smashing lines and snagging passes for the Spartans of Michigan State in big time football. In this, his senior year, his fondest ambitions have been realized when, after a very successful season, he was named co-captain of Charley Bachman's '38 gridders. Also accorded him was the honor of playing in the Blue and Grey post season All-star game.

BASKETBALL COACH

VAN ALSTYNE

Set for action!

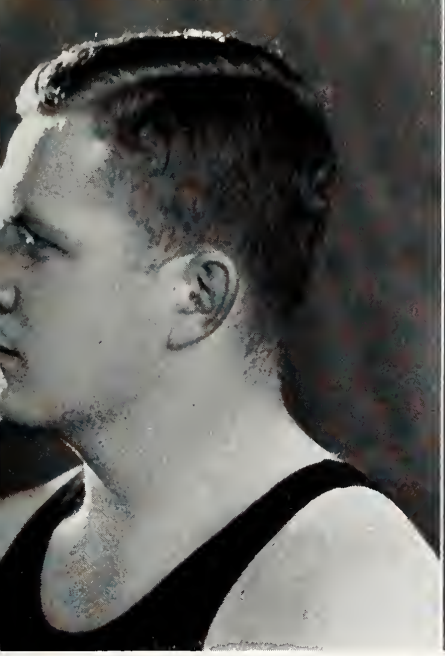
When Ben VanAlstyne demonstrates cage strategy to Spartan basketballers, he doesn't do it from the bench. It's an old habit of his—this donning sweat shirt and pants—and if the boys don't get the idea right off the bat, Van gets out on the hardwoods and shows them how.

Charlie Henry, co-captain of the 1939 basketball team, has been Coach VanAlstyne's ace in the hole for two years. When the going got rough and the opposition threatened to win out, Van usually substituted Henry at guard to stem the tide. While not always a regular, he was consistently aggressive and his close playing stopped many a shot. Since players of Henry's tenacity and courage do not appear every day, his absence from the team will be noticed considerably.

CALLAHAN

After four years at Michigan State, Leo Callahan from Schenectady, New York terminated an exceptional career on the courts. Elected co-captain of this year's basketball team, Leo consistently sparked the State squad with his fiery play. Always a scrappy player, he was in the midst of any mixup on the floor. Any coach would find it hard to fill the place he leaves on the team.

AND CO-CAPTAINS



CO-CAPTAIN HENRY

HINDMAN

HUTT

King Football abdicates and Crown Prince Basketball takes over . . . team looks good but schedule looks tough . . . "Van" predicts about a .500 season . . . gym-hangers-on can't see it . . . not with the Gary Gang, Long George Falkowski, Marty Hutt, and Leo Callahan all back.

Spartans get off to an inauspicious start December 8 by dropping a weak Kalamazoo College quint to the tune of 36 to 26 . . . Hutt picks up nine points to pace Spartans.

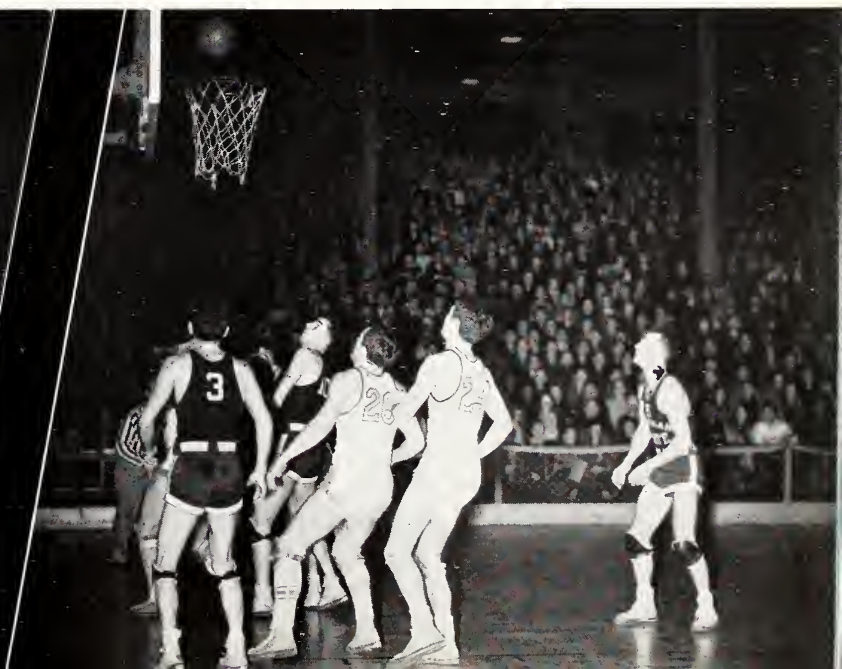
A favored State team upset by Bennie Oosterbaan's Wolverines on December 10 . . . it's the opener for Michigan and Jimmie Rae collects 12 points to press the Spartan downfall . . . so far Van is right.

Lineup revamped for a tough Oberlin team on the 17th . . . Gary Gang (Aubuchon, Hindman, and Phillips) break into game to trip Oberlin . . . fans and spectators start raving about State's sophomore guard, Chet Aubuchon . . . Van calls a vacation from practice . . . finals, and end of fall term.

Van's hair grays rapidly as he worries over Penn State's zone defense . . . sports scribes sling lots of ink to complain about Penn State's ethics . . . zone defense is supposedly barred by gentleman's agreement.

The boys hand Van a Christmas present three days later by taking Penn State on the 28th . . . those "in the know" give the credit to Van for inaugurating a system to spoil Penn's zoning.

Comes New Year's eve but the Spartans take a licking and are none too gay . . . it was Indiana over State 37 to 33.



AUBUCHON

DALRYMPLE

FALKOWSKI

First game of 1939 sees State journey to Chicago for a wild and wooly overtime battle against Loyola . . . Loyola comes out on the top side . . . score 46 to 44 one overtime period . . . more cries of poor officiating.

After a nine day rest-up Central State Teachers' invade Sparta land with a club that has plenty on the ball . . . Van's boys are pushed before they down the snarling Bearcats 29 to 24.

Van calls for another rest period . . . "no practice tonight" signs are hung out . . . it works . . . the lads of Sparta look good dropping a scrapping gang of Western Reserve basketballers 36 to 21 . . . Callahan and Hutt pace the victors . . . the boys are two up on Van's prediction.

With a seven day break between games the first squad runs over to Ann Arbor to scout the Michigan-Wisconsin battle . . . pick up a few pointers but not enough to whip Butler University in Indianapolis . . . they lose by one point and get closer to the pre-season prediction.

State comes back with a vengeance in the southland to trip up Tennessee on January 28 . . . southpaw Falkowski grabs off 13 points and the lads are happy again . . . However, when casualties are checked after the game they don't feel so well . . . Marty Hutt takes one on the chin and loses a couple of teeth . . . and then comes the injury jinx in full armor . . . colds, twisted ankles, and what-nots take their toll and it's a crippled team that takes the floor against Butler for the last game of the month on the 28th . . . Callahan is still a whole man, and the fans claim that he's capable of taking the places of two ordinary men.

MORRIS

SHIDLER

Butler starts out with a rush and throws a score into State in the first period . . . but the boys get back on their feet and take them into camp . . . score is 39 to 29.

On February 4 up into Wisconsin to win again . . . again it's Long George Falkowski who sets the pace . . . they come back with high hopes for the second encounter with Michigan on the 11th.

It's Saturday night of the 11th, and 6000 fans jam into Demonstration Hall to shout themselves hoarse in the wildest game of the season . . . State flashes a second half attack which has the crowd on their feet . . . but it isn't enough and Michigan comes through 30 to 25.

Marquette comes in like a lion and limps out like a lamb on the 14th . . . State 35-29 in a rough and tumble, tooth and claw affair . . . 34 fouls called . . . Aubuchon shines again.

On the 21st, the Gary Gang carries the load and the Spartans nip Temple 29-25 . . . it's the third tough game in a week.

Almost the end of the trail now, and State goes back into the northland to drop a heart-breaker to Marquette in an overtime, 38-36 . . . it's even-steven for these two for the season and the feud will carry over for another year.

Falkowski goes on an individual scoring spree to dump in 22 points against Wayne on the 25th . . . but it's not enough and the finale is lost, 40 to 33.

So we lose eight and win nine . . . Van hits the nail on the head, and the boys go back to their books

OF SPARTAN

BASEBALL

The team batting average for the season was .238; the fielding average, .941. Two regulars, Johnny Kuk and George Levagood, both outfielders, led the team in batting. Kuk hit .354 and Levagood swatted .391. Al Diebold, right fielder, was the only regular to field 1.000, although Sam Nuznov, Clyde Randall and Harper Scott were not far behind.

Ray Dahlstrom, a sophomore righthander, led the hurlers with a record of four wins and one loss. A sore arm caused Dahlstrom to alternate between the pitching rubber and the outfield. Glen Rankin, another soph, was in second place with five victories and three losses, while George Monroe a senior was the other pitcher to boast a winning average with three wins and two losses. Art Libbers, Pete Dal Ponte and Orlando Sines all chalked up a single triumph, with Libbers losing two and Dal Ponte one.

Three regulars, Catcher Randall, Pitcher Rankin and Outfielder Kuk, joined the pro ranks after graduation. Al Diebold and Sam Nuznov were elected co-captains for the 1939 season.

Lauren Brown has made a place for Michigan State on the cross-country map of the nation in the last ten years.

"Brownie" began his career as a crack runner at this college and stayed after he graduated to develop more and better track men for Michigan State.

COACH BROWN

TRACK COACH, CAPTAIN

There's a runner!

Lauren Brown, track coach, spoke thusly when he got his first glimpse of Kenny Waite, Jackson product, five years ago.

And during the following four years Kenny gave ample proof of Brownie's judgement. A good many points in both track and cross country are chalked up on Ken's credit over the past four years. Waite received his just reward when the boys named him honorary captain last spring.

SPARTAN CHEERLEADERS

A good cheerleader never gets chilly at even the coldest football game. He is so vigorous in his activities that the strongest wind will never daunt him. All he has to have is a smile on his face and a personality that appeals to the mob.

State has a team of these hot-air producers who direct the shouting of college yells at our athletic contests. Headed by George Calhoun, the boys practice three nights a week fall term in order to get in tip top shape for each occasion.

In recent years, cheerleaders all over the country have also provided skits before game time or between the halves which serve to entertain the crowds. State has had more than its share of this sort of amusement. Among the best stunts used in '38, was a coffin which was carried around the field at the U. of M. game, a gun battle which ended with all the boys apparently dead, and a procession of lawn mowers preceded by a sign which read, "We'll mow 'em down."

These ideas are all products of the cheerleaders and are developed at practice sessions.

Besides participation at athletic contests, the cheerleaders officiate at pep meetings and rallies.

"If some of my great teams had expended all the effort that this one has, they would have broken all existing records."

So says Cross-Country Coach Lauren P. Brown of his harriers.

Team balance and the will to win carried the Green and White through to victory in that first meet with Butler University. The score was State 20, Butler 35.

That glow kept burning when, the men of Sparta tripped up a strong Pitt team and came through against Indiana to grab a close one, 27 to 28.

On November 5, Dick Frey broke the record for the 23rd annual Michigan State Intercollegiates, ringing up a bruising four miles in the time of 21:32.9.

It was tough to take when ex-Spartan Billy Smith of Penn State paced a large field home to victory in the I. C. 4-A meet in New York on November 14, to end a five year Spartan monopoly on the coveted crown. State was second to Manhattan.

Michigan State played host to 25 colleges to wind up the season with the running of the First National Collegiates and placed fourth.

SWIMMING

"It was one of those lean years for the swimming team", Coach "Jake" Daubert says in summarizing the swimming season.

Loss of stars by graduation, illness and ineligibility added to the failure of ten members of last year's freshman team to the report for the varsity made an outstanding team impossible.

Even though belabored by such handicaps, Coach Daubert's men proved themselves strong competition to leading mid-west teams. Of eight meets, State won only one, against Western Reserve, 52-23. Three other meets wound up with scores to indicate that the breaks were definitely with the opposition. Kenyon College, Ohio Wesleyan, and Purdue University each triumphed by narrow margins of less than five points.

Outstanding performers of the season were Donald Ladd in the 220 free, Forrest Owen in the breast stroke, and Leon Williamson in the distances.

Ladd and Williamson represented the team in the National Intercollegiate Meet at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in the post-season competition of the country's leading swimmers.

That the season did not measure up to standards of previous Daubert coached teams is shown by the scarcity of new records established. Only in the 270-yard medley relay and in the 360-yard free style relay were new records set. They will stand forever, with all the other records, as representing the top performances in the "old" gymnasium. The next year's records will be entered on the walls of the natatorium in the Gymnasium and Field House.

The score was 30 love as Chet Olson served them to his opponent. On this particular May afternoon an enthusiastic crowd of Spartan tennis fans shouted words of encouragement to one of State's tennis idols. The Spartan netters were winning a closely contested match from an ever formidable opponent, the University of Michigan.

This was but one of the scenes which took place during the 1938 tennis season, as State's racqueteers hung up seven victories as against five defeats for a season's record. Paced by the court ability of Chet Olson, Ralph Jennings, Wendell Foltz, Seymore Rawitz and Herman Struck, Coach C. D. Ball had the pleasure of enjoying one of the most successful tennis campaigns State has had.

Flashing an attack with which very few opponents were able to cope, the Spartan tennis contingent scored major victories over Indiana University, Toledo University, Ohio State University, Marquette University, and Notre Dame, along with the University of Michigan triumph.

An exceptional 1938 season was experienced by the State golf squad, scoring seven victories out of eight matches. Ohio State was the only team that won from State. This match was the last on the Spartan card and was lost by one point, 9 1-2—8 1-2. Michigan went down twice before the Green and White sparkling foursome. Western Reserve and Notre Dame went down in easy strides, but Northwestern put up some stiff opposition, losing by a one point margin, 9 1-2—8 1-2.

Captain Ed Flowers led the team and later qualified for the National Golf Collegiates in Louisville, Kentucky. He later played in the Michigan Open and the National Amateur Tournament as a result of winning the Michigan Amateur crown.

In national team ratings, Michigan State took twelfth place with a score of 627. Stanford University was awarded first place totaling 609 points.

Climaxing the first season of Intercollegiate boxing for Michigan State under the National Intercollegiate rulings, State's maulers suffered one defeat, shared honors once, and won two meets by decisive scores.

State men have boxed for years, but not until this year did Coach "Brick" Burhans enter the boys under the recognized laws of the game among college boxers.

Captain Don Rossi was held favorite above his first opponent from Syracuse, but he fell beneath a barrage of fists as did four other State men. The local lads lost this meet 5-3.

About this time Carl "Fumbles" Thompson came into the picture and proceeded to run to the victory list among the 155 pound class. Thompson and Clint Braidwood displayed as good a class of fisticuffs as anyone in their classes, and, ended up with some of the top-notchers in the collegiate circle.

States boxing team beat the West Virginia Mountaineers 7-1, and went on to defeat a squad from Miami U., headed by Joey Church, National A. A. U. 2 year champ, and 1938 Olympic boxer, by a score of 6-2.

Of the eight bouts with Penn State, the M. S. C. team took four and gave the remainder to their opponents, running to a tie with the Quakers.

The annual National Intercollegiate Boxing Meet, held at Madison, Wisconsin, afforded an opportunity for Captain Don Rossi, Clint Braidwood, Ernie Dunn, and Carl Thompson to show their skill for the alma mater. All were eventually eliminated, however.

Characterizing the 1939 wrestling season were the shifts between various weight classes made by Coach Collins, yielding added victories for the M. S. C. grapplers. Early season changes brought Frieberger to the middleweight spot, put Benny Riggs down to 145, and shifted Bill Martin to 135. Later, Martin, along with Lloyd Russell, moved back to the 145 division.

At the same time Dale Ball was moved up from the 128-pound to the 135-pound division, Bob Frank was shifted to the 128-pound group, and Dick Kinney was placed in the 121-pound class.

Filling out the roster were Frieberger at 155, Charley Hudson at 165, Captain Steve Slezak at 175, and Dale Stephenson at the heavyweight spot.

The varsity won over Wisconsin, 20-8, with Dale Ball starring for the Spartans. Ball was the only one of Collins' men to win his match when University of Michigan downed Michigan State 29-3.

Other notable Spartan victories were over Case, 20-6, with Dale Stephenson the stand-out man, and Wheaton, 22-8, with Ball again taking the spotlight.

Polo, as a sport, was initiated on this campus in 1927 by Colonel Shereburne. Since that time, it has continually grown in popularity among the college students. The sport is open to any male college student who can ride, and since the team practices four nights a week, it is a full time job.

Michigan State is the only college in the mid-west with an indoor polo-field and has difficulty finding other college teams to compete with. This year they will play Iowa State and Illinois on outdoor fields.

The Spartan squad plays in a league with five other teams from neighboring towns. A trophy is offered to the team which wins the most games during the season. Last year the State team won the award.

Only one player was lost since last season, Tom Matlack, who left school to join the cavalry division of the U. S. Army. With the old team back and the new players who promise to develop into excellent polo players, Spartan chances to win the season trophy are very good.

Games are played each Wednesday and Friday night. Because of the low price of admission and the exciting entertainment, the polo games are popular among student circles.

FENCING

In a season marked by outstanding individual and team scores, the M. S. C. fencers completed their season with seven victories in eleven starts. Charles Schmitter of Detroit coached the team.

Competing with top teams in the mid-west, the season was marred greatly by the loss of the Lawrence trophy when State was defeated twice by the men from Lawrence Institute.

Included in the list of teams outpointed by Schmitter's men were Wisconsin, Purdue, Marquette, Buffalo, Wayne, and Western Reserve. Ohio State was the victor by a margin of one point in a dual meet. Wayne gained a victory over State, thus splitting the season score.

Captain Manuel Arteaga brought to a close a brilliant college fencing career by winning 80 per cent of his bouts as No. 1 man in foil. Jerry Richards was close behind with a 78 per cent for the season. He was No. 2 man in foil. William Hasselback scored 70 per cent as No. 1 saber man, to post the best score in years for that division.

No. 1 in epee was Benjamin Bisgeier, who triumphed in 70 per cent of his matches. Other members of the squad were George Grenzke, Bill Hammond, Elmer Kay, Garth Oswald, and Oscar Susman.

Among the activities of the Women's Athletic Association this year, was a talk by Helen Wills Moody which was sponsored in addition to the organization's usual projects. Other interests of the group are the Breakfast to the W. A. A. cabin Freshman Week, supervision of girls' intramural sports and Play Day which is sponsored twice a year, once for high school girls and once for women from other colleges.

W. A. A. operates a food concession during Farmers' Week and a candy counter in the gym, profit from which is used to cover yearly expences.

Membership in W. A. A. may be attained by earning 100 points in coed competition and a "C" average. Initiation is held at a term luncheon. To retain her membership, a woman must continue to earn 50 points each year.

Women may participate in volleyball, baseball, hockey, tennis, fencing, golf, archery, swimming and several other sports.

Awards are presented at the annual spring banquet. They include a large or small letter "S" or freshman numerals. Highest of honors in W. A. A. is the inscription of a woman's name on the "Honor" Roll. For this distinction, a woman must earn 1500 points. This year all members of the W. A. A. board were presented with golden pendants on which was inscribed the letters "W. A. A.".

The aim of W. A. A. is to stimulate interest in athletics among Michigan State women. Its motto is "A sport for every girl and every girl in a sport."

GREEN SPLASH

Green Splash was organized on this campus in 1927 for the purpose of stimulating interest in swimming and other pool activities among Michigan State girls.

To attain membership, a girl must pass the Senior Life Saving test fall term, swim on her class team winter term, and maintain at least a "C" average scholastically. Her name is then submitted to the active members for consideration and approval.

The outstanding project of the year is the production of the Water Pageant which was presented this year on February 16. The organization also sponsors all-college date night in the pool throughout the year. The Green Splash Water Pageant theme this season was "A Night in Arabia". The entire production, including theme, water formations, and land effects as well as the actual presentation of the pageant are products of the imagination and ingenuity of Green Splash members.

A dive from the tower through a ring of fire by Lauraine Endelman climaxed the performance.

Scimitar, womens' fencing honorary, was organized in 1937 to promote skill and interest in fencing among Michigan State College women students.

Pledges are chosen from coeds who earn their points for W. A. A. fall term in fencing. Toward the close of winter term, the candidate's name is proposed for membership and accepted upon unanimous vote of the group.

Meets sponsored by them with other colleges include, Wayne, U. of D., Michigan, Olivet, Highland Park J. C. and a fencing club in Detroit, Salle de Tuscan.

Active members of Scimitar teach all W. A. A. fencing classes. Their meetings are held once a week when Scimitar members fence teams from the freshman class and nearby clubs for practice.

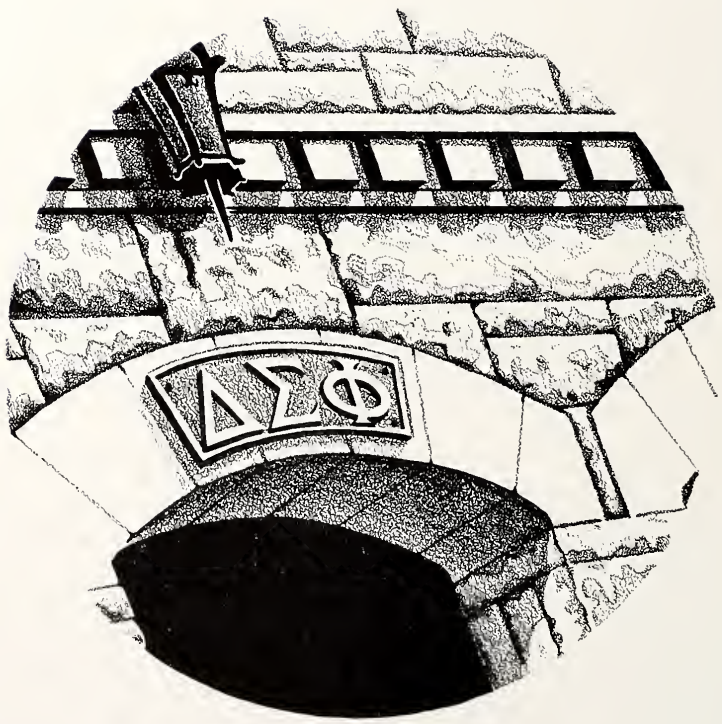
Once a year, Scimitar members take an overnight outing into the neighbor country. On these occasions, the girls forget dates and college academic life, to enjoy the campfire stories and weenie roasts which always ensue.

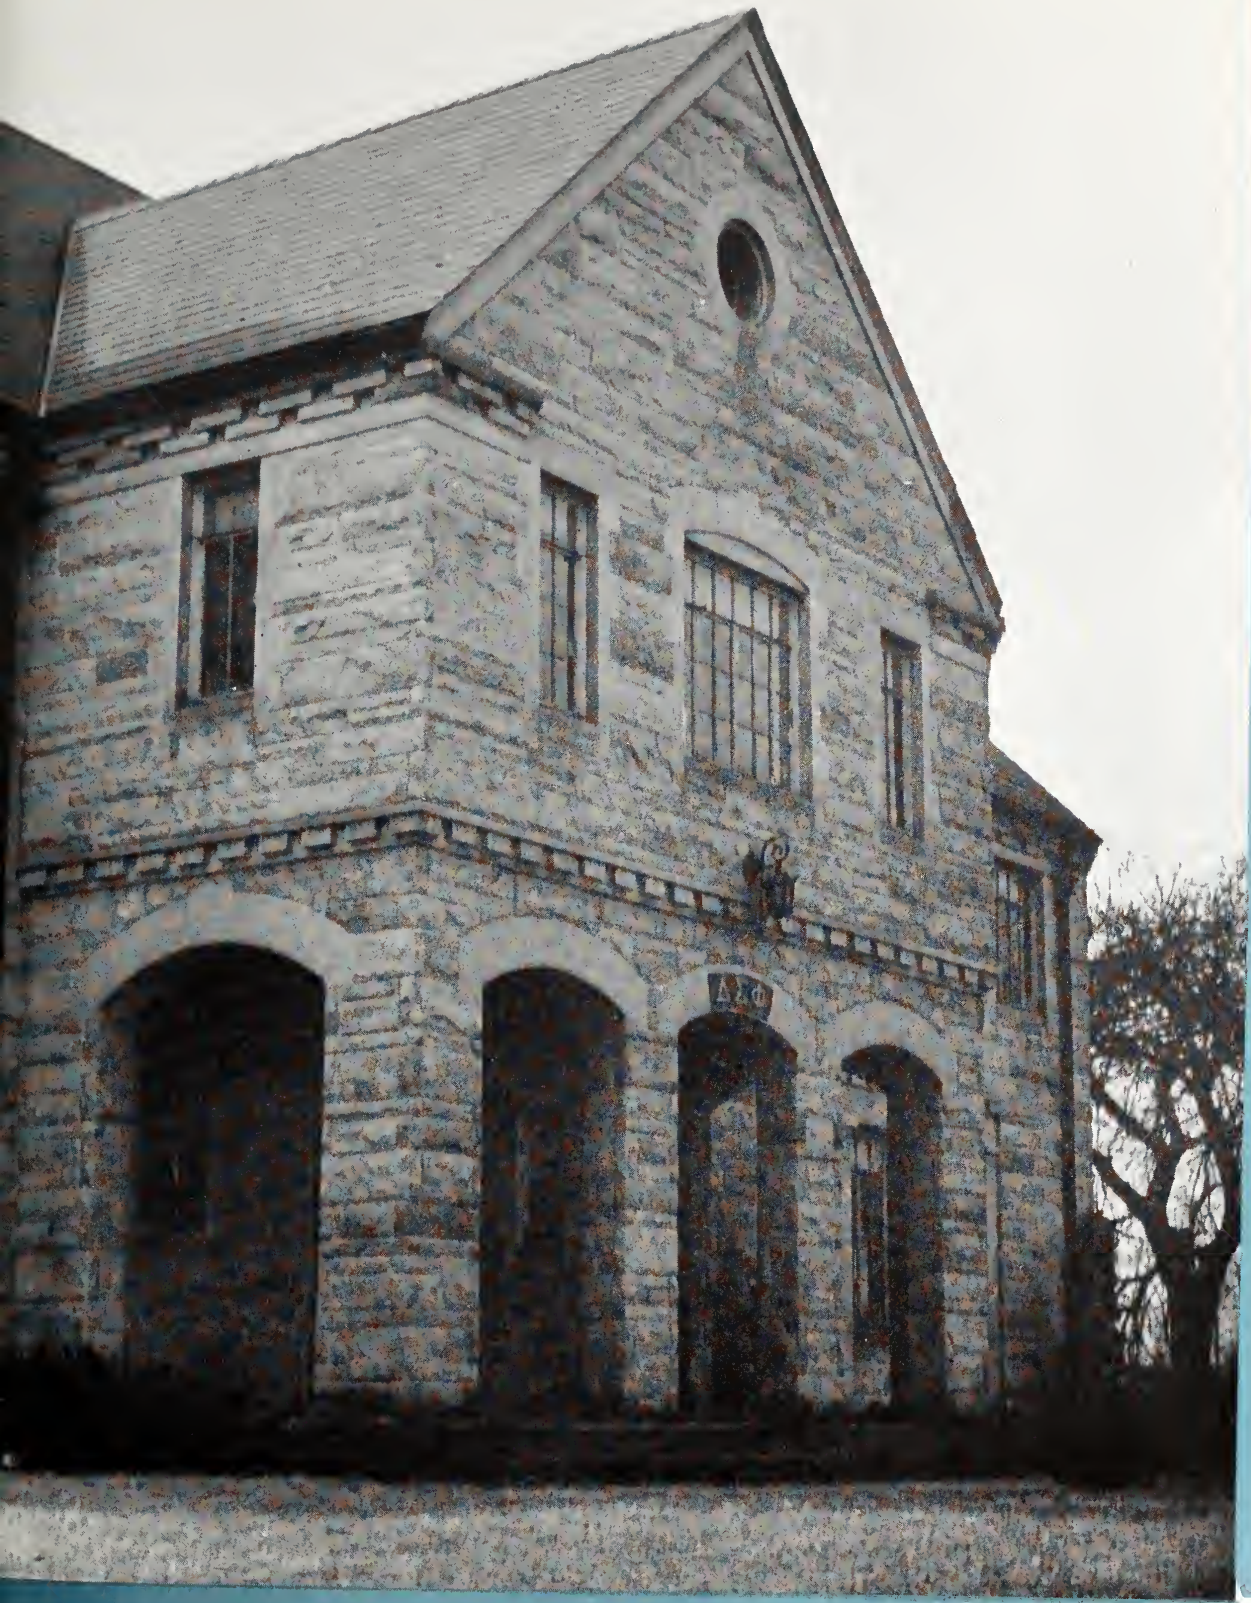
GIRLS' SPORTS AS THEY ARE

"A sport for every girl, and every girl in a sport."

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES

Society chapter houses, from where eminates the social and political life of the campus. Thirty beautiful houses dot the near campus areas of East Lansing, some old, some new, but all symbolic of Fraternity.





As on every campus where fraternities and sororities hold sway, Greek Letterdom greatly influences all campus scholastic athletic, social, and political life here at Michigan State.

Originally conceived for the purpose of bringing together individuals with common interests under one roof, fraternities and sororities have far widened their scope and now exercise their strength of unity in many fields. Although small in total number of individuals, group action by these organizations has made possible a degree of control far in excess of that of any other group.

Scholastically, they tend to equal the all college average, with some groups being below this figure and others with averages hovering about the 1.7 mark. Scholarship officers and complete files of examinations for many terms back within the individual houses serves to aid many a struggling student.

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES

Athletically, interfraternity and intersorority athletics play a tremendous part in the athletic program of the college. Nearly all sports included in the varsity list, with the addition of a few not participated in by varsity teams, are included in the year around athletic schedules. Many a promising varsity candidate has been plucked from these ranks by sharp-eyed coaches.

Socially, these groups form the nucleus about which all campus social life centers. Three or four parties a term is the practice among the various houses, varying from recording parties to formal dinner dances with name bands.

Politically, fraternity "blocs" have for years controlled campus elections. Occasional concerted effort on the part of Independents has frequently brought them rich political plums, but over a span of years, it has been the fraternities and sororities who have controlled the political life of the campus.

In this section, we present to the reader these groups together with pictures of their houses and activities, and a bit of information about each.

The governing body of fraternity organizations is the Interfraternity Council, composed of one member from each of the fraternities on campus recognized by the college faculty committee. The council functions with one purpose; to bring the faculty and the fraternities closer together in order to promote understanding, harmony and cooperation between the fraternities and the college.

The council formulates all scholarship, rushing, and athletic regulations for its member groups, enforcing such rules as are drawn up.

All Interfraternity athletics are organized and supervised by the council, and, at the end of each year, the fraternity with the highest total points is awarded the Interfraternity athletic cup. Individual awards in each sport are also presented. The Eclectics won the athletic award last year. The Lambda Chis were presented with the cup for Homecoming decorations for the second consecutive year.

The Council again sponsored the I. F. C. Convocation which is composed of I. F. C. representatives from leading Colleges and Universities of the East and Middle West. The convocation considers various problems as they relate to fraternities and make such recommendations as appear advisable.

The women's fraternal organizations have as their governing body the Panhellenic Council, composed of a junior and a senior member from each sorority. The council's purpose is the promotion of friendship, the fostering of harmony and cooperation among the various groups on the campus, and legislation in any business that might arise. Meetings are held semi-monthly, and have been rotated among the eleven sorority houses on campus instead of being held at the Union, as in the past.

During the school year, Panhellenic council has sponsored several campus events of college interest Outstanding among these was the Panhellenic banquet held in the Union Ballroom. At this time, two achievement cups were presented by the council, an annual practice. The cup for outstanding Homecoming decorations went to the Chi Omegas, and the scholarship cup was awarded to Alpha Chi Omega. The scholastic averages of all groups were also publicized at this time. The speaker of the evening was Mrs. F. D. Griffith, wife of Colonel Griffith of the Military department.

Last spring the Council conceived and inaugurated a new event, the Panhellenic Sing. Eighty per cent of each sorority's membership is required to be present. Each group presents two songs, which may be sung in any style or manner desired. The setting for the sing is the new Band Shell, which is well adapted for such a presentation. The first cup was won by the Kappa Alpha Thetas who rendered their selections in an inimitable three-part harmony.

February 17 was the big night in Interfraternity and Panhellenic circles, for it marked the presentation of the Interfraternity-Panhellenic ball, held at the Masonic Temple. Good!—claimed all critical socialites.

Have you noticed anything strange about the A. E. Pi's? Thanks to one of the brothers, they did away with twenty pounds of crunchy popcorn; no little snack! There should be some reaction to such an intake as that. Maybe that's what gave them so much pep, vim, and go that they practically "mowed down" the other fraternities during the touch football season.

The boys have played host at several house and radio parties, but we call attention to one in particular, the one followed by a lusty song feste that extended far, far into the night. Consider their poor neighbors, the Theta Nus!

Those fortunate A. E. Pi's who had the intellect or else the perseverance to come forth with a higher scholastic average than others in the chapter, were lucky enough to represent the Michigan State chapter at the national convention held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The A. G. R's have manifested a comprehensive knowledge of agriculture, which has enabled them to place some of their men on various agricultural judging teams. Chief among these is the Dairy Judging Team which placed first in the judging at Waterloo, Iowa.

The goal of Alpha Gamma Rho is scholarship. In working towards this goal, four of their intellectuals were initiated into Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity.

To honor their national president, a recent house guest of the Alpha Gamma Rhos', they entertained at the house with a dinner attended by members and outside guests. They have given radio parties at one time or another during the year, and arranged a Christmas party at the house.

The Beta Kappa's great dusky canine pet, Blackie, is quite a hunter, though one wouldn't know it to look at him. But he is no greater than two of the fellows in the house, for the three of them struck out one night bent on big game conquest. They succeeded, for what should their catch be but an impressive black and white animal commonly referred to as a "skunk". For several days, the three of them bore their triumph together, but segregated from the rest of the house. Man, the mightiest of beasts!

Their national convention was held over the Christmas Holidays at Biloxi, Mississippi. Two of the brothers sped down to the sunny South to represent the Michigan State chapter of Beta Kappa. After the Convo, the four delegates from four of the Ohio chapters were house guests over the week-end. As a means of entertaining them, a radio party was given. Ever partial to the radio are the Beta Kappas, since popular Sammy Kaye dedicated an entire program to them.

The Delphics, like the Beta Kappas, also participated in a hunt, but these fellows really got something. Their team of three went out and bagged enough pheasants to feed the entire house with some to spare.

Similar to a hunt, with circumstances differing, was that incident which occurred 'neath the shade of the old apple tree, finally ascending right into it. One of the taller Delphics, six feet two, was encountered by, of all things, a girl. Considerably perturbed, the poor helpless lad hastily scaled the tree. Can you imagine—treed by a girl? The weaker sex! Hah! Circumstances were not fully revealed.

At the time when all good Michigan Staters go Ann Arborward, namely, the Michigan game, the Delphics joined the trek, and while there were guests of the Theta Chi boys at their house.

Famous for unique and unusual parties, the Delta Chis carried out their social events nobly this year. They very successfully gave a Bowery Ball, unique in idea and execution.

Again they hired hay wagons and horses, and the result—a chummy hay ride party. Their social committee must be on its toes to conceive these novel party ideas rather than the usual radio get-to-gether.

When the polo team from Iowa State appeared on State's campus, it was the boys of Delta Chi who entertained the six horsiteers. Another time, Ralph Young favored them with a friendly speech in return for a sumptous dinner.

This year's weekly 15 minute fraternity broadcast was inaugurated by the Delta Chis. They got the series off to a flying start with a well executed program.

The Delta Sigs have a house divided; but divided on but one question—to hang a pin or not to hang it. In support of hanging it they have the faction that has been self-labeled, the "F. F. A." (Future Fathers of America), and support of the negative side of the question rests with "The Resisters". Time alone can tell which shall endure, the F. F. A. or the Resisters.

While they were enjoying themselves after the Ann Arbor game, won by Delta Sig Fritz Crisler's Wolverines, a group of the lads met a contigent of Michigan Alums. When the Michiganders found out the boys were from State, anticipated harsh words were dispensed with as the Ann Arbor lads passed around—no boys, not that—but some luscious cake, as a soothing balm for the disheartened Spartans.

These Tic pledges were pretty cocksure fellows Fall term. They went as far as to challenge any other football team on the campus, except, of course, Bachman's boys. We didn't hear of any acceptances, thus all their cockiness went for naught.

Braggadocio—an Eclectic boy went deer hunting with a few notables during the season—namely, Mickey Cochrane, Harry Kipke, and Dutra, plus Bennett of the Ford Company. Among all these people, the "poor unknown" Tic was the only one to bag a deer. As a result, the house cut their food budget by stretching venison dinners into many days.

The Tics had their quota of informal parties at the house this year, and all of them went off with a bang. We wonder—did the professional tap dancer in their midst have anything to do with the success of the parties?

Holding and cherishing the scholarship cup, the Farmhouse boys were hard at it again this year. Worth noting—three of their men were initiated into Alpha Zeta, national agricultural honorary, and another was initiated into Xi Sigma Phi, national forestry honorary. In addition to this, all of their pledges made their marks, and were duly initiated, thus, the Farmhouse slate is clean, set for future pledging.

Farmhouse is the only fraternity on campus which boasts a house mother. The charming lady is Mrs. Bartlett from Grand Rapids. To her boys, she is known as "Mother Bartlett", a title she carries out to the best of her ability. Under her guidance and helping hand, their Fall term party given in the Little Theatre, and their winter term party at the Olds Hotel, attained a high degree of success.

The Hesperians take the blue ribbon, cup, and all honors for their formal party again this year. The hill-dwelling Hespies booked Anson Weeks, who swung out in fine fashion, as their maestro. Still further, not to be outdone by the Senior Ball, a picture portrait was taken of each couple at the dance by a professional picture-snatcher. Still not to be outdone, the Hespies matched college construction, by erecting an addition on the rear of the house, to be ready for use by the time next Fall's pledging begins.

New cars would help the landscaping though, for some of the decrepit rattleboxes used as conveyances belie the social standing of the boys.

Delta Psi Chapter 1937.

A few of the boys of Kappa Sigma began what they chose to call "The Hermit Club", a united body resolved to be against any and all dating. Its charter members and officers are, for the most part, in the senior class. As the year finishes, we find that it is still going strong.

Rise of a new interorganization resulted in the German Band of Kappa Sigma, famous during the political campaign, falling into a state of total collapse.

All kidding aside, Kappa Sigmas really suffer when they hang a pin, for after the lovely serenade at the house or dorm where the lucky girl lives, frat brothers scrub the fraternity's letters on the chest of the pin-giver and heal it with iodine. The ceremony has been performed several times this year, the serenades being no less than swell.

Maybe you noticed those queer corduroy affairs on the heads of some thirty fellows. Yes, they were Kappa Sigs; at least thirty of the members wore them in typical Kappa Sig style. They were really hats, pork pies too, not affairs.

Lambda Chi Alphas have many generous pappys, for unknown to chapter members they pooled their donations and bought the house an R. C. A. combination victrola and radio. Having reason to celebrate, the boys gave numerous radio, sweater, and hard times parties.

The Lambda Chi men have feasted on venison and pheasant as a result of their hunting expeditions, not to mention the duck a few of the fellows got during Christmas interim. Rumors were to the effect that said ducks were a part of those we so fondly gazed on in the Red Cedar. Can you imagine? As result of this story, they were dragged from sleep one night by a rather unexpected visitor—a cop. It developed, though, that the ducks were the gift of a fond father. Lucky Lambda Chis!

Leaving the co-eds completely out, the Phi Chi Alphas went anti-social via a stag party. This included the alumni, actives, pledges and guests. However, they couldn't hold out entirely since women were invited to their Fall and Winter term parties. Also included in their social life of the year was a Christmas dinner at the house after which a Lansing attorney, an alumnus, spoke to them.

Two loving cups—one for the highest bowling score of any team and the other for the highest individual score were added to the mantel of Phi Chi Alpha's fireplace. Congratulations, boys!

A note of progression of the Phi Chi Alphas is evidenced by the new paint job—each member having contributed his bit.

"Efficiency" is the word that best characterizes the Michigan Beta chapter, boast the Phi Delta Thetas after receiving commendatory word from their national office. Aside from this praise, the boys wondered what made them stand out in a crowd. Investigation revealed that the boys on the average are six feet tall and weigh around 179 pounds. Who wouldn't stand out if they have such statures as these. Whatta man, Phi Delt!

Favorite indoor sport of the Phi Delta for the past year has been car swapping. Successful? Sure—in fact no blows were recorded over the arrangements. No bumming or buses for the Phi Delts.

The Phi Kappa Taus inaugurated an original betting proposition as time for the Ann Arbor game drew near. It seems the State chapter arranged with their Ann Arbor brothers to present the skin of some unfortunate animal to the Phi Taus of the school that wins the annual grid classic. The wall hanging is fully inscribed with the autographs of all members of the losing chapter!

With sweaters in vogue, the Phi Taus sponsored a very successful radio party. During the festivities, their well-known circle dance was again revived. At this particular party, jitter-bug honors were carried off by jiving Ed McNamara.

A thoughtful gesture on the part of the Phi Taus was the Christmas party given for underprivileged children of East Lansing. A thorough conditioning for later rushing, say the Phi Taus.

Alpha Theta Chapter 1925.

Pi Kappa Phi began their interior decoration program fall term. Arrangements were that each fellow was to decorate his room to suit his own taste. The system flourished as long as roommates could agree on the color scheme to be used.

One Pi Kap was so attached to his room, and so fond of sleep, he couldn't tear himself away from his bed in time for his eight o'clock. Therefore, he devised the scheme of wearing his clothes over his pajamas. In this manner, he could do away with dressing, which resulted in getting to class on time.

These boys certainly keep in close contact with their alumni, what with having an alumni meeting at house and breakfast with the graduated Pi Kaps. At the meeting moving pictures, which were taken out West, were shown. Alums from nearly all graduating classes attended the breakfast.

The S. A. E's put forth a little extra mazuma and had their entire first floor refinished at the beginning of the year, in preparation for pledging and the many house parties to come.

The job received the acid test when the S. A. E's gave a radio party and invited the entire football team. It was a gala evening, with special mention going to Ed Pogor who arranged, managed, and enacted an original floorshow. Good—they said. We really didn't know he had it in him.

Intrigued by the party idea, the pledges of this Bogue Street group gave a party honoring themselves on the Red Cedar's Banks, in the Forester's cabin, and refused admission to the actives. Sounds to us like revolt of the underdog.

The Sigma Nus point with pride to their new Filipino cook whom they acquired this year. They boast that he is the best cook on campus. In addition to his culinary functions, he silently glides about the house doing the lads every whim. Who knows but what they may have him ghost writing their exams for them.

To flaunt his culinary art and skill they arranged exchange dinners with other Greeks. Still further, they had him prepare a dinner honoring the boys of Sigma Nu who played on the Varsity football team, most notable among whom is "Spence" Pingel, only State player ever to be chosen as one of the Associated Press All-American team.

Not that the Theta Nu pledges think the actives don't know proper etiquette and are therefore trying to instruct them in the correct ways of Emily Post, but they have delivered speeches every Thursday night, just to prove to their betters that they know how to do what when. We wouldn't venture to say how much this has had to do with the standing of the pledges scholastically, but it's a fact that those of Theta Nu had the highest average of all fraternity pledges on campus. It was just under 1.9. Not bad, fellows!

Members must have used their expert social habits to advantage at their Winter term party, which was held at the Lansing Women's Club, for who should they have as two of their guests but their grand president and secretary.

Alpha Chi Sigma, only professional fraternity on campus maintaining a house, is a chemists' organization. Four of the fellows went South to represent the Michigan State chapter at the national convention of this fraternity which was held at New Orleans last summer, and from reports brought back, it was most interesting. Yes, very interesting, as are all conventions, especially that part termed "unofficial".

Three of these professional boys, in chem engineering, were initiated into Phi Lambda Tau, one of the honoraries of the Engineering Division.

During the pheasant season some of the fellows got out their blunderbuses and decided to go a-hunting. One of the boys took the blue ribbon as prize marksman with his score adding up to no-runs, no-hits, all errors. Everyone but the poor pheasants was worried.

Still upholding their "good scout" motto of a good turn annually, the Alpha Chis brought comfort to the Lansing aged through their performance given at the Old Ladies Home. Knowing the Alpha Chi talent along the lines of singing, everyone can appreciate how much the women must have enjoyed it.

Not exactly in the good deed category, but certainly under some classification was the Alpha Chi Omega pin collecting campaign. From all reports that could be gathered, they really did quite well in their campaigning, but we hear that there is still many a goodly Alpha Chi on the look-out. Take care, my boy! Spring term is Spring term.

They also have another goal in view; to keep that Scholarship Cup, right where it is—in the most conspicuous spot in the house.

Rebelling from the usual, monotonous program of a term party, the Alpha Gams changed the routine somewhat by introducing various mix-up dances to break the formality of it all. Among these dances was the Lambeth Walk, intricate, but fun and good if well done. Among the other attractions at the party were renditions by certain talented members of the group, in the form of blues—that low-down music, we all crave at this time. Some success, that party.

In perfect contrast to the apparent social success displayed was the "project" of Alpha Gamma Delta; that is, the summer camp that is sponsored by this sorority nationally. Its goal is the benefit of needy children and it is located in the beautiful resort country of Canada.

Having acquired a new house mother from Saginaw, Mrs. Vibert, the Alpha Omicron Pis have carried out a full year of social activities under her able guidance. They have entertained faculty guests at dinner, given teas for national officers, have displayed no end of hospitality by welcoming back alums who have come to enjoy the good times of the various parties. By serving hot chocolate at the house after various games, they have warmed the hearts, etc., of many a cold and tired worshipper of football.

The sorority, although young on our campus, is growing all the time, here and in others parts of the country. Evidence of this is the establishment of a new chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi at Louisiana State University. The local chapter had the entire house redecorated during the summer to make ready for fall term rushing, at which they were extremely successful.

After long years of anxious planning, plotting, and scheming the Alpha Phis have at last acquired that new house. Located on what is fast becoming called Sorority Row, the house well upholds the precedent already set by their friendly neighbors, the popular Kappas and the chic Alpha Chis. The Alpha Phi's took a lot on themselves moving into that almost sacred area, but they seem to be doing quite all right for themselves and certainly will continue to do so.

Although the day set for their open house was a wet, snowy one, the Alpha Phis, ready to cope with every problem, laid out white cloth runners to absorb the mud and excess water from the shoes and boots of curious onlookers. And who wouldn't be curious to inspect such a beautiful house? It more than lived up to the expectations of the most optimistic.

The Alpha Xi Deltas had a rare treat in the form of a visitor, the father of one of the girls. Not particularly unusual, but with this visitor came a second party, a master of the accordian who entertained the girls of Alpha Xi. Prior to that he had played for the queen of ice skaters, none other than Sonja Heinie—some treat.

During the school year the Alpha Xi's have entertained extensively themselves. They have presided at various social functions, and for each of these occasions the alums, those faithful graduates common to all sororities, returned to feel the warm friendship of Alpha Xi again. They even gave a Xmas party for them, but of course gave one for the actives too—actives never get left out somehow.

One alumna, who has been doing missionary work in China, returned to take graduate work at State.

Although State is no longer a "cow college", the Chi Omegas failed to realize this, for some benevolent donor placed a few chickens in their midst. The care of fowl was a new field to the gals, and as soon as they were able to find the source of the feathered pets, they returned them with all due haste.

Stimulated by Mrs. McCune's travel talk, several of the girls cured their wander-lusts during the fall term with trips to DePauw and Ohio Wesleyan. The remainder of the chapter followed the Spartan team via the radio every other Saturday. Cider and doughnuts produced a congenial atmosphere which so characterizes Chi O gatherings.

Away from the clamor and clash of sorority row, the Thetas have pursued a dignified busy and interesting year. Rushing started with a bang with the pledging of twenty-two grand girls, after which actives and pledges settled down to the college year.

The social whirl gained momentum with the fall term party which was voted such a success that a radio party followed. Exchange dinners, starting with a half-step in the wrong direction, proved successful with the Thetas meeting new friends and seeing old ones. And of course no year would be complete without the big winter term formal to provide the final touch of elegance.

Proving the good marksmanship of the Thetas, Mary Bowers and Peg Clemett won both the team and individual cup for shooting.

In the Spring, the Thetas donned overhauls and helped in landscaping the backyard, which when finished, should add much to the appearance of their gray stone house.

After living on Valley Court these many years, the Kappa Deltas have now moved to their newly acquired house at 523 Grove Street. Putting the new chapter house to good usage, they have arranged numerous active and alumnae gatherings. Coffee was served after all games during the football season, and breakfasts with their entire group attending became popular.

The local girls were elated to discover that Pearl Buck, Nobel prize winner, is a Kappa Delta from the University of West Virginia. Alumni prestige is an important factor in any group, and any elation over such a revelation was justifiable.

The Kappa Kappa Gammas are under a new guiding hand, the hand of Mrs. Johnston, their new house mother. In honoring her, they have arranged and presented teas for house mothers of other groups, and others attended by pledges of every other sorority on the campus. In true Kappa style, everything went off smoothly and efficiently. Still further in the entertainment line, they conducted exchange dinners with the Phi Delts, the Kappa Sigs and the Hespies, and held a noteworthy date dinner prior to the Panhellenic-Interfraternity Ball.

Several Kappa transferees from State are now attending other schools in various sections of the country, notably, Katherine Gibbs and Sarah Lawrence, girls' schools, and dress designing schools in New York. Correspondence reveals that they are all doing well, though they miss their Kappa sisters at State.

The scandal-mongers were elated and excited over news that the Sigma Kappas were having trouble no-end over sorority balances after their winter term party. Investigation revealed that all improper balances were but the result of newly waxed floors.

In preparation for rushing and other events that a new year holds, they had their living room and den done over in blue and white leather, modern and snappy, and a sure "pledge-getter."

During the year, the Sigma Kappas aided a national charitable organization in true Golden Rule fashion. A benefit tea at the chapter house for the Sea Coast Mission enabled the girls to make a sizable contribution.

On October 15 and 16 the Zeta Tau Alphas celebrated the 40th anniversary of their founding and their 7th year on the campus of Michigan State with a service at the house for actives and alumnae. The first chapter of Zeta Tau was established in 1899 at the Virginia State Normal College in Farmville, Virginia.

There was much heckling and a good deal of merriment as a result of a bet to the effect that one of the girls would not sing "My Man" at their fall term party. She warbled the ditty and the betters lost.

Typical of womanhood, the Zeta Taus took advantage of a bargain in gold fish bowls and tooth paste. The former now adorn the house mother's room and the tooth paste has gone the way of all bicuspid cleansers.

Epsilon Chi is the newest sorority on campus, having been founded May 2, 1938. Previously, it had been tentatively accepted since Feb. 21, 1938. Their first adviser was Miss Peck of the Home Economics Department. The adviser now, however, is Miss Hoffman, also of Home Economics. Charter members are Margaret Ascher, Celine Borr, Jeanette Danin, Beatrice Fishler, Rhea Kaufman, Betty Kamins, Bernice Lebousky, Jesse Levin, Shirley Levinson, Betty Rosenblum.

The girls held their first formal party in the Little Theatre, February 18th. They also had a mixer in the Forestry Cabin during Fall Term.

The last warped mortarboard has been tenderly encased in mothballs. The last frayed gown has been tearfully laid away. The last inarticulate senior, bright-eyed and eager, has clutched his diploma in his moist little hand and started out, like Captain Cook and Chicken Little, to see the World. And the Class of 1939, whether it realizes it or not, has become history.

But before we toss the Class of '39 to the scrap heap of Time, let's have a look at the record. The Record is a monthly humor magazine published at Yale University which steals all the Spartan's good ideas about three years before the Spartan gets around to printing them. The record is Benny Goodman and his jive-cats jamming their own version of "the Sonata Pathetique." The record is also a great black book kept in heaven by a rather anemic-looking angel who had to hire a special assistant to take care of the Class of '39.

When the Class of '39 first began its alleged education, Michigan State was known as Michigan Agricultural College, and the greatest event during its first freshman year was the celebration of the return of the troops from the Spanish-American War. When the Class of '39 eventually approached graduation, Michigan State had become the most outstanding college in East Lansing.

Invitation to a New Experience

A new experience awaits you in the 1939 Ford cars. Just get in and ride.

It will be a level ride. The Ford stabilized chassis keeps the car on an even keel. No bobbing when you start or stop.

It will be a restful ride. Seat cushions are unusually soft and deep. Flexible transverse springs and big hydraulic shock absorbers help soak up road shocks.

It will be a quiet ride. Thorough insulation all around has reduced noise and vibration to a remarkable degree. The silence is soothing.

Many other things contribute to Ford Comfort—the smoothness of eight cylinders—the smoothness of hydraulic brakes—the driving ease for which Fords are famous.

All these add up to a car that's as comfortable as it is good-looking—and that's saying something!

The Class of 1939, returning to the Campus in later years, will be amazed at the improvements and changes. That has been true, in some degree, of each graduating class since the first, but will be more evident now than ever before, thanks to the present vigorous and far-sighted College administration in bringing into effect the current building program.

The Michigan Surety Company, as contractor's bondsman on most of these projects, stands sponsor for the workmanlike completion of these improvements, and is gratified to have had a part in the progress of the College which it supports.

The enrollment was doubling, trebling, and quad rupling at such a tremendous rate that it was estimated by the administration that if all the new students were laid end to end it would look like a private fraternity party. Something obviously had to be done quickly to take care of the expansion.

And something was done. A new grill was established in the Union. This immediately served to remove pressure from such over-crowded buildings as the library, rodent lab, and the Beal Botanical Gardens. Tastily decorated in stainless steel and an almost smug odor of newness, the grill from the first attracted great crowds of students who spent much of their time there. Some even spent their money, but this was looked upon as contra bonos mores by all but the hoi-polloi.

The general scheme of interior decoration was daring in its simplicity. The ceiling was painted a rich cream color so as to blend with any mechanical accidents occurred in the agitation of malted milks. Waiters were symetrically arranged in pairs to produce an illusion of efficiency.

One of the campus' more prominent stuffed fish was kept in a glass case on the wall. The chairs and tables were charmingly exploded across the floor in a delightful post-tornado pattern. Indirect lighting and service finished-off the new grill with undeniable eclat.

Other problems such as inadequate class-room and dormitory facilities gave the college a new building boom and the D.T.'s. Because of the appalling lack of rooming facilities, many students were sleeping in classes. Because of the appalling lack of classrooms, many others were forced to do their sleeping at home. It was a situation that demanded immediate attention and action.

The Board of Agriculture met in a special session, and, after a long and chummy discussion on the pennant possibilities of the Tigers, inaugurated a long-range building program: A fieldhouse for athletics, a dormitory for men, a dormitory for girls, a practice hall for music, a laboratory for veterinary science, an auditorium for $900,000, and a livestock pavilion for good measure.

The action elicited considerable comment. "Foolish and unnecessary!" declared the Michigan Daily, advancing a substitute proposal that instead, Michigan State be incorporated into the University. "Even then," conceded the Daily, "the dormitory for men might be necessary, but we will gladly take care of the girls."

The State News lashed back with a blazing condemnation of the Daily's suggestion. Unfortunately, in casting the type, so many typographical errors were made in the editorial that it was necessary to print it on the sports page as part of the column "Scoop Says". But public opinion was swinging in favor of the expansion program. Even the Honorable Brutius J. Tyler of Wayne County recognized the inevitable approval of the plan. Tyler's objections were based on the report of the Green Commission to the 1837 Territorial legislature which declared the site to be "a wilderness of impenetrable density", although this was later understood to refer only to the areas between Morrill Hall and the Delta Sig house, and between the Spartan editor's ears.

LEADERSHIP...

- To win and consistently hold a place as the recognized leader of school annual printing, has been the record of Rogers Printing Company since its beginning in 1908.

- That we have, during a period of 31 years, successfully produced hundreds of annuals for schools throughout the country, attests our ability to satisfy completely the most discriminating Year Book Staff.

- New ideas, coupled with the knowledge and experience gained through a quarter of a century's service, insure the school that chooses a Rogers printed book of ideal pages "From Start to Finish."

- We are proud that the staff of THE WOLVERINE entrusted its printing to our organization and we herewith present it as an example of our work.

Tyler was best known for his opposition to the construction of the Soo Canal at Sault Ste. Marie on the grounds that it should be built closer to Detroit. "The public," sadly declared Tyler, in a speech to the Michigan Alumni Association, "no longer considers 'State' a horrid word."

That was the year 1907. Business was shaking in its boots because a radical named Roosevelt was President. He visited the campus that year, and Eric Wessborg, now a prominent sophomore at M. S. C., still tells of it. "I was only a freshman then. A group of us made the long hazardous trip from the Hespie house to where the weather bureau now stands. There were four of us, myself, a crude backwoodsman named V. G. E. Spaniola III, and Blimp Rischman. We put on our coonskin caps and started out just shortly past midnight. If we had gone by way of the Tic house, we would have had to pass through hostile territory all the way, so instead we detoured by way of several points on Michigan Avenue. It took us longer to get there by that route, in fact, we never got there at all, but I remember it very well. I didn't like Roosevelt anyway."

That was 1907, and many members of the Class of '39 were just beginning to realize how much Michigan State meant to them after four years. The building boom was going on apace, and in spite of the interruptions of the War, Prosperity, and the Depression, the program was rushed forward so that by the fall of 1938 the construction of most of the buildings was well under way.

The fall of 1938 also brought the debacle of the Michigan game, listed in some histories as the Battle of Couldn't Run. After four jubilant years of victory, the mighty Spartan Army rode into battle smiling and confident. Ah, that was a team! Every man a veteran and a leader! Every man a fighter! Every man alert, quick-thinking, and courageous, and what is more, something that couldn't be said about many of their opponents, every man able to read and write his own name and carry an intelligent conversation.

Yes, that was a team. Gallant and picturesque they cantered on to the battlefield that warm Autumn day. They went into action in the same decisive manner that in the previous encounters on that same field, had forecast a brilliant victory. Up in Row 63 I settled comfortably in my alloted 27 inches of bench and waited confidently for the outcome.

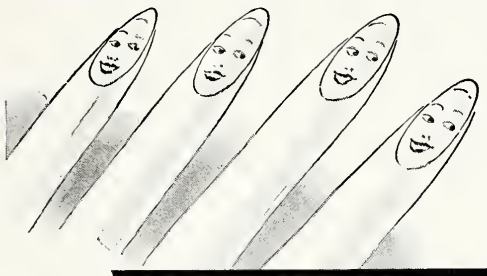
Perhaps You've never heard of—

Smiling Finger Tips!



• The "touch" of the new Underwood Master gives the operator an easier typing day, gives the executive increased typing production, finer, cleaner-cut typemanship and safeguards him against those late afternoon errors that usually result from typing fatigue.

Years ago Underwood discovered that "touch" was as individual as a thumb print and then did something about it. Thus, on the new Underwood Master each of the forty-two keys is individually tuned to the finger tips and, as an added feature, the typist can control the tension of all keys from the keyboard by a mere flick of a finger. That's Dual Touch Tuning.

Underwood offers a choice of three typewriters—the Standard, the Noiseless and the new Master. The Master offers Dual "Touch Tuning", Champion Keyboard and the new Sealed Action Frame, providing quieter operation and greater protection against dust.

Schools everywhere, sensing the place that the new Underwood Master is destined to attain in the business world, are including these machines in their regular training equipment. One school has already purchased one hundred and nineteen of them.

Why not telephone the nearest Underwood Elliott Fisher Branch for a free trial and see for yourself how much this newest Underwood adds to the art of typewriting.

Then something happened. Exactly what, was never determined. But the advance became a fighting retreat; the retreat became a bewildered rout. The victors were vanquished by some unexplainable whim of the gods and a grim Michigan eleven. And I lost seventy-five cents. Whether it was overconfidence, poor strategy, or just the breaks of the game has not, and may never be explained. It will go down with the great mysteries of history along with Custer's plan of battle at the Little Bighorn, the Case of the Combustible Corpse, and Who Put the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder.

A lot of firewater passed under the bridgework before the memory of that Michigan game was deadened. Even years afterward when State man met State man it was still considered a legitimate excuse for lifting two or three quick ones. Periodically the boys would make the rounds of Michigan avenue mortuaries to drink embalming fluid in the name of that fateful Saturday afternoon. The 21st amendment and the 1938 State-Michigan game are still spoken of as landmarks in the history of the Michigan brewing industry.

But then even the Michigan game wasn't the whole football season, though it did leave behind it a trail of broken hearts, bottles, and pocketbooks. When the smoke cleared away from the last battlefield and the brain of the last sportswriter in December, it was learned that State had still managed to win six games and that one John Spencer Pingel was a first-rate or third-rate All-American, depending on whether you read the Associated Press or Collier's Weekly.

New Year's Day found Pingel playing in the East-West game, and a shy one-man wrecking crew named Dave Diehl invading Dixie for the North-South game. Both of the heroes returned covered with glory, blushes, bruises, and, to their eternal credit, the old-sized hats.

January, 1939 also went down in history as the month that corsages were banned for college formals. "Flowers," publicly declared Bill Hasselback, mouthpiece for the Student Council, "should be seen and not worn."

"That's a lie!" indignantly screamed the State News Art Editor, who, like Ferdinand the Bull, liked nothing better than to sit and smell the aroma of Four Roses. "A pretty girl is like a melody, and so is a flower. And love is what makes the world go 'round. Put them all together they spell Romance, Love, and J-Hop. Besides I have the agency for selling corsages."

"Flowers," blandly commented Dick Nahstoil, Chairman of the J-Hop, ignoring the heated outbursts, "are just the thing for funerals. The J-Hop is not a funeral."

"It will be if we don't get a band signed pretty soon," remarked Junior President Gargett. And so the conversation had turned from corsages to cornets.

After conducting a campus-wide poll to select the J-Hop band, the committee announced the results: The four most popular bands were Horace Heidt, Benny Goodman, Kay Kyser, and Tommy Dorsey. Going on this basis the committee immediately tried to sign Guy Lombardo, Blue Barron, Bert Block, Herbie Kay, Shep Fields, Cab Calloway, Vincent Lopez, Paul Whiteman, Nate Fry, Bob Siegrest, and the Texas Ranch Boys.

The first ten were counted out as unavailable. The last two refused to sign unless guaranteed at least an audience. And there was the J-Hop committee perched neatly on the horns of a dilemma, with the Wolverine editor trying to bootleg corsages right under their noses.

Arrangements were made at last to borrow the record player from the Kappa Sig house and use it for the J-Hop. But this proved unnecessary when Henry Busse and his "Hot Lips" showed up the evening of February 3rd and took over.

"I knew it all the time," claimed Dick Nahstoll later, but nobody really believed him. But then nobody cared, for the J-Hop was a tremendous success. The committee furnished programs and applesauce as refreshments. The S. R. O. sign was hung out on the dance floor, and merriment reigned. It was estimated by experts that 307 coeds and 403 tuxedoes attended, of which at least three of both were not borrowed. As for the corsage ban, even wall-flowers were thrown out by the doorman.

After the J-Hop came the election of a snow queen, and the celebrated Glen Rankin Kidnapping Case. From purely an esthetic standpoint the Rankin kidnapping was a mistake; the snow queen would have been a much more logical victim. But the Cleveland Indians thought different.

"It was this way," Oscar Vitt explained later in an interview. "We thought we were pretty well-off as to pitching. There was Feller; he had a fireball. There was Harder; he had a curve ball. There was Hemsley; he had a highball. Then we all had a highball, and a couple of dry martinis. So we signed up Rankin and there was a screwball. How are you betting on the world series?"

Yes, those were stirring times. With Farmers Week and all. But the big surprise was Mike Casteel. Casteel suddenly after four weeks consideration signed as head football coach at Arizona, resigning from the M. S. C. staff. In solemn conclave, the powers-that-be refused his request for a salary raise, and accepted his resignation. It was a smart move, for it was necessary to hire only five men to take his place. Casteel was scarcely missed at all except in football, track and baseball.

February slid into March, but was called out for failing to touch second base, and the Senior ball was upon the Class of 1939.

And how did you like it, dears? I was given a number when they took my picture but I'm sure nothing was meant by it.

It was nice. The soft music, the moonlight, the swaying of couples on the dance floor, and the intermission—it was perfect. For once I really felt sorry for you poor suckers, leaving a sweet set-up like college for a thing called a Future and the World.

But then Spring stopped all that. April calcimined the hills with emerald, and May sprayed the green fields with a flitgun loaded with rainbows. And Spring came in, with Love, and whatever else it is a young man's fancy turns to.

And then came June—today.

So here you are, seniors, you poor fish. I don't know whether to envy or to pity you. I've spent most of my natural life in the Sophomore class, and things like graduation, diplomas, and degrees seem a long way off. I can't appreciate your emotions or regrets—if you have any.

But I do know this: you won't be missed. Next year there'll be another senior class, and I'll be giving them the same cynical advice: Keep your head high, your chin in, and hit below the belt if you think it's necessary.

You're through with college. You've hit a skidway called "graduation" into a muddle called "Life". You're through. Finished with Michigan State College. Graduated. Washed up.

Anyway, Seniors, good luck from an all-time Sophomore.

Suckers!
